Hazardous weather

Wet pavement apparently caused John M. Crouch, 17, 1311 South Moniteau, to lose control of his car at 8:10 p.m. Saturday on Highway 50, one-half mile west of Route TT. One passenger, Lloyd Eugene Schlupe, 15, Route 1, was listed in good condition at Bothwell Hospital, suffering from a fractured right collar bone. The vehicle veered off Highway 50, rolled over, and came to rest on its right side, pinning Gary D. Turley, 15, Smithton, underneath, it was reported. Turley was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital. The driver was not injured.

Black rulers meet on Rhodesian plan

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Black leader Joshua Nkomo, considered a possible prime minister after Rhodesia's white rulers turn power over to the black majority, returned home Saturday to take part in talks on an interim, biracial government.

Nkomo is head of a main faction of the divided African National Council. He arrived in Salisbury just hours after Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Rhodesia's 278,000 whites would yield to international pressure and turn the country over to its 6.4 million blacks.

Although U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's diplomatic campaign is credited for Smith's capitulation, Nkomo told a news conference on his arrival that further American involvement in Rhodesia should be limited.

"I made it perfectly clear that they (American efforts) have a function" during recent talks with Kissinger in Zambia, Nkomo said. "That function starts somewhere and ends somewhere. From there on, it is the people of this country who must through their leaders work out the future shape of things."

The African National Council is a coalition of black nationalist Rhodesian groups formed in 1974 with the help of the presidents of the neighboring "front-line" black African states — Kenneth Kuanda of Zambia, Samora Machel of Mozambique, Julius Nyerere of Tanzania and Sir Seretse Khama of Botswana.

The four black leaders were meeting Saturday in Lusaka, Zambia, to discuss the plan and Nkomo said he would be meeting with them "sooner than you expect."

Their attitude will be crucial to the success of the move toward black rule. Nyerere is highly influential with southern African black nationalists and Kaunda is a main supporter of Nkomo's ANC faction.

Nkomo, thought to have both Soviet and American approval, is considered a moderate; and his faction has operated within Rhodesia.

Patty's legal mess not over

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, sentenced to seven years in prison for bank robbery, is destined to spend much of her immediate future in courtrooms — as witness and defendant.

Her complicated legal path will unavoidably be tied to her sworn enemies, William and Emily Harris.

Miss Hearst's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, says she will make her first appearance as a witness against the Harrises on Monday, testifying in secret before an Alameda County grand jury about the event that changed her life — her kidnaping by the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974.

She has publicly accused the Harrises, self-avowed members of the SLA, of her abduction and denied that she was their true comrade during months on the run with them and fellow fugitives.

The Harrises pleaded not guilty earlier this week to a criminal complaint in the case, but the district attorney is seeking a formal indictment based on Miss Hearst's testimony.

The 22-year-old heiress would be the key witness at the Harrises' kidnaping trial.

But first, she is scheduled to stand trial next Jan. 10 in Los Angeles on charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery that grew out of a shoplifting foray at a sporting goods store that ended up as a night and day of violence with the Harrises.

The Harrises, who were tried separately on the same charges, were convicted Aug. 9 of kidnaping and robbery but were acquitted of six assaults. Jurors indicated they felt Miss Hearst was responsible for the assaults.

Bailey and his law partner, Al Johnson, insisted after Miss Hearst's sentencing Friday that they would not engage in plea bargaining in Los Angeles.

"You can't ethically plead a client guilty unless you believe she is guilty and are willing to say so in court," Bailey said.

Johnson has said he will seek a dismissal of the charges. The attorney said he will begin filing motions in Miss Hearst's behalf in about two weeks.

Both lawyers stressed that Miss Hearst will cooperate with law enforcement officials and testify against others when asked. Bailey said she had already provided information, "and she was willing to give it with no price tag attached."

U.S. District Judge William H. Orrick said he considered Miss Hearst's cooperation in setting her sentence.

She will be eligible for parole in 16 months.

U.S. poverty on the way up

WASHINGTON (AP) — More Americans slid into poverty last year than any time in the 17 years the government has been keeping track, the Census Bureau said Saturday.

The bureau blamed the 2.5-million increase in poverty-stricken people on the whipsaw effect of high inflation in the midst of recession, together with widespread exhaustion of unemployment benefits last year.

Despite an $818 increase in median family income last year, to $13,720 a year, inflation dragged the buying power of that income down to the lowest level in five years in 1975, the Census Bureau said.

The drop worked out to 2.6 per cent and followed a 3.5 per cent drop in 1974. Buying power by that measure has now shrunk four of the last six years.

For the number of people in poverty, it was the second increase in a row and only the third since the bureau began keeping such statistics in 1959. The increases in 1974 and in 1970 were both about 1.3 million.

The Census Bureau said 25.9 million persons lived in families that were below the government-defined poverty level of $5,500 for a nonfarm family of four. The poverty level was up, due to inflation, from $5,038 in 1974.

The number of people in poverty was the largest since the 27.8 million in 1967, when the poverty level was $3,410.

The 1975 figure represented 12 per cent, or nearly one out of every eight persons. That was up from 11.6 per cent the year before and was the highest since the 12.6 per cent in 1970.

The Census Bureau said 25.9 million families were below the government-defined poverty level of $5,500 for a nonfarm family of four.

Searching's half the fun

Local men scan for local loot

By BRUCE KABAT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The aura of mystery and intrigue surrounding hidden treasures has bewitched man throughout the ages. Tales of buried pioneer relics and loot stashed by notorious outlaws have become a rich part of American folklore.

Although man's fascination with hidden treasures has not subsided over the years, time has changed the techniques of treasure-hunting. The days of charred treasure maps and pickaxes have succumbed to the forces of technology.

Ed Walters, Route 2, and Harold Ream, Route 5, are two modern treasure-hunters who claim their hobby is rewarding in more ways than one.

Walters, 44, assistant manager of Central Missouri Electric Co-op, uses a $195 metal detector, a handcrafted metal blade and a screwdriver to unearth his treasures.

"Wherever there are people, there are treasures," he says. "In the old days people didn't believe in banks. They buried their money. Sometimes they were killed by bushwhackers and their money was left buried."

In nine years of treasure-hunting, Walters has found thousands of coins, including an 1875 half-dollar and Indian-head pennies whose dates have been smoothed away by time. His metal detector has led him to hundreds of buffalo-head nickels, several rings, bracelets, brooches, cast-iron toys — and even a metal fragment from a plane that crashed near Whiteman Air Force Base.

Walters says he became interested in treasure-hunting when he bought a book entitled "Gold" while visiting Hot Springs, Ark.

"There was a picture of an old prospector on the cover, and there were stories of treasures that had been found and treasures that were still buried," he says.

After buying a small, inexpensive metal detector, Walters came upon one of his most interesting finds.

"I found a case of Civil War bullets in a churchyard near Green Ridge," he says. "They were still in the leather pouch that had 'U.S. Cavalry' written on it."

Walters checked into the history of the area and found that a cavalry unit had indeed camped in the area along the old Butterfield State Line.

His initial success with the inexpensive detector led him to buy a more expensive model two years later. The sophisticated metal detectors, sold in many coin shops and hardware stores, look like a cross between a Geiger counter and a vacuum cleaner.

The unit consists of an oblong box with numerous dials and switches, and an extendable arm with a flat disc at the end. The battery-operated detector emits a dull hum, punctuated by a sharp beep when the disc passes over a metal object. The finest detectors, which cost up to $450, can detect metal objects up to four feet in the ground, Ream says.

Although he has been hunting treasures for only a year, Ream has purchased two "discriminator" detectors valued together at $629. These models can distinguish between coins and trash, such as pull-tabs, bottle caps, nuts and bolts.

Ream, 27, an engineer with Central Missouri Electric Co-op, says the detectors work on a magnetic field principle.

"A loop coil in the disc sets up a magnetic field, and metal objects in the ground either reinforce or subtract from the field. This causes deviations in the tone coming from the detector," he says.

Treasure-hunting is a fast-growing hobby, according to Ream. Clubs have been formed in Kansas City and St. Louis, he says, and six or seven magazines entice treasure hunters with stories like "Sundance Kid's Missing Loot" and "The Missing Apache Post Office Treasure."

"The publicity has been kind of an unfortunate thing," Walters says, "because hunters are getting their loot ripped off. That's why Harold and I keep ours in a strongbox."

Since more and more persons are getting involved in treasure-hunting, Walters and Ream are secretive about prospective treasure sites. And both men are still searching for the hobby's top reward — a gold coin.

"We haven't found one yet, but we've got some good leads," Ream says. "Treasure hunting is a slow process, and it's easy to go over the same area twice. But you have to hit every inch of an area because you

Man stabs 3-year-old to exorcise the devil

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 27-year-old man was charged Saturday with stabbing his 3 year-old son with a bread knife to exorcise him of the devil, police said.

James T. Matkowski, 27, plunged the knife into his son because he thought the child was possessed of the devil and had to be killed to "save the world," said Police Capt. Donald Thom.

Thom said Matkowski was charged with aggravated and simple assault, recklessly endangering the life of another, and weapons offenses.

The boy, James Jr., was in critical condition at Northeastern Hospital with a collapsed lung, authorities said.

Matkowski, apparently influenced by recent movies on the subject, took a bread knife with a serrated edge to his son's second-floor bedroom and stabbed the boy in the left side, police said.

They said Matkowski returned downstairs and told his wife, Katherine, 25, he had stabbed the child. She ran upstairs and found the boy lying on the floor with the knife still imbedded in his side, officers said.

Police said Matkowski, who recently lost his job, had been talking the day before about how his son was possessed by the devil.

King's taxes, net worth made public

Independence Mayor Richard A. (Dick) King, candidate for Congress, told the Fourth District Republican Women's meeting held in Sedalia Saturday that he has released his 1975 federal income tax return and a statement of his net worth "to help restore public confidence in government."

"I have made these disclosures which are not required by law, since I was first elected to public office in 1974," he said.

King told the group he was making the disclosure because, "disclosures are particularly important to voters before an election, because many candidates largely finance their campaigns through personal wealth. People want to know about possible conflicts of interest before they cast their ballots."

He pledged to continue making similar disclosures if elected to Congress. King added that he would have no other job while in office.

Vowing to carry his personal philosophy of openness to Washington, King stated that he will strive to end "inadequate House procedures which have protected many members who have abused the public trust."

King also took aim at the House leadership, saying, "despite intense public demands for higher standards of congressional conduct, the House leadership has not pushed for needed reforms."

King outlined seven proposals for reform in Congress.

He said the General Accounting Office

70 counties put on disaster list

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Seventy of Missouri's 114 counties have been declared drought disaster areas by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration.

The governor's office was advised by the White House Friday that farmers in those counties will be eligible for special help from the federal government, especially those with brood cows and calves for sale to commercial beef feeders.

"Missouri's cow herd is No. 2 in the nation, and it is vital for the state to maintain its breeding herd," said Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Loans are available for transporting hay and feed into the disaster areas or for moving animals to places where hay, pastures and water are available.

Some Missouri counties already have been designated for special disaster help from the Farmers Home Administration.

The 70 counties receiving the designation from the Disaster Assistance Administration:

Adair, Andrew, Audrain, Bates, Benton, Boone, Buchanan, Butler, Caldwell, Callaway, Camden, Carroll, Cass, Chariton, Clark, Clay, Clinton, Cole, Cooper, Crawford, Dallas, Daviess, DeKalb, Dent, Franklin, Gasconade, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Henry, Hickory, Howard, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson.

The 44 counties not included are nearly all in south Missouri, mostly below a line from around Nevada on the Kansas border to Ste. Genevieve on the Mississippi River.

Government payments to farmers may go up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two months into the new marketing year for rice, Agriculture Department economists foresee the government paying out millions to farmers in 1977 to compensate for prices depressed by the record supplies.

The only event likely to prevent that would be a drastic worsening of the world rice crop sufficient to drive the price substantially above $8.25 per 100 pounds, the Outlook and Situation Board indicates in a new report.

Early season farm prices for rice have averaged a third below a year ago. The 1975 average was about $7.93, a 29 per cent drop from 1974 and a 42.5 per cent drop from 1973 but $2.97 above the 1965-1969 average.

Under the new government program for rice production, growers with USDA-assigned allotments are paid the difference between the average season price they receive on the crop from their allotted acres and the "target price" this season of $8.25 a hundredweight.

The low prices came at a time when the three-year-old worldwide buildup in rice supplies may be reversed by the first crop decline since 1972. But the reason for them is a 420 per cent increase from a year before in the carry-over of U.S. rice stocks on Aug. 1.

The 36.9 million hundredweight, 28.9 per cent of the record crop grown last year, is almost double the carry-over of the previous three years combined, the board's figures show.

The huge supplies on hand would indicate bargain prices for consumers, and smaller prospective crops overseas in major producing countries would indicate higher demand for U.S. rice in export channels.

The board said it expects 29.5 million hundredweight to be sold for food here this season, a 6.5 per cent increase, and 61.5 million hundredweight to be exported, an 8.85 per cent jump.

Even so, it said, the stocks on hand at the end of the year on July 31, 1977, now are expected to be 42.8 million hundredweight, a 16 per cent increase going into another season.

Faced with the record supplies, farmers last spring reduced the amount of rice they planted, resulting in a 14 per cent smaller crop at 110.2 million hundredweight this year. The board's forecast projects a 3 per cent decline in the amount of rice held for seed from this year.

The board also expects brewers to continue increasing their use of rice in beer, buying 10 million hundredweight for a 9.9 per cent rise.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of women who smoked cigars last year was 400 per cent greater than in 1970 and the number who smoked pipes was up 300 per cent, according to a chart in the Agriculture Department's latest pamphlet on the U.S. tobacco market.

However, female cigar smokers amount to only one-half of one per cent of all women and pipe users, four-tenths of one per cent.

Twenty-nine per cent of U.S. women older than 21 smoked cigarettes, a drop of 3.3 per cent, compared to 39 per cent of the men, a drop of 7.15 per cent over five years.

Ford takes to Mississippi...

ABOARD THE NATCHEZ (AP) — President Ford campaigned aboard a Mississippi River stern-wheeler Saturday, declaring from the deck of this political showboat that he means to contest Jimmy Carter all across the South.

He told a crowd that lined the levee in tiny Lutcher, La., about 35 miles upstream from New Orleans, that he's conceding nothing, "from the snowy banks of Minnesota to the sandy plains of Georgia." That covered the home states of both Carter and Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale.

Ford called Mondale "the biggest spender in the Senate."

Then, with a rasp from it's hoarse horn, the riverboat Natchez embarked on the President's excursion into Carter's native Southland. Along the way, the President promised flatly that if he is elected he will ask for another tax reduction next January.

He also pledged to curb federal spending and, in terms of national defense, "keep America No. 1, period."

Amid the political celebration, a man collapsed of a heart attack in the boat's dining room. Dr. William Lukash, Ford's physician, revived him, and he was taken on a stretcher aboard a Coast Guard boat that pulled alongside the Natchez.

The man was identified as Percy Green, publisher of the Jackson Advocate, a weekly newspaper in Jackson, Miss. Lukash said Green had suffered cardiac arrest but was responding to treatment. "He's apparently responding nicely," Lukash said.

While Green was being taken from the Natchez, Ford was on the upper deck, touring the riverboat with its captain, Clark (Doc) Hawley.

With Mrs. Ford at his side, Ford covered the boat from the boiler room to the pilot's wheelhouse. He shook hands with the invited passengers, and many of them offered congratulations on his showing in Thursday night's debate against Democrat Carter.

"I don't concede a single vote," Ford told several thousand people crowding a levee at Reserve, La. "...I'm in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida to prove that we can win on Nov. 2."

Ford said that if he does "we will recommend another tax reduction" next year. He did not say what kind of additional tax cut he had in mind.

Congress this year ignored his proposal that personal exemptions be increased from $750 to $1,000.

"I believe that the federal government spends too much of your tax dollars," Ford said.

He said "the kind of tax reform that makes sense" is a reduction in spending to put more money in the hands of the taxpayers.

...as Carter alters course

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter is shifting away from statistics and litanies of Democratic names from the past and is recasting his speeches with the themes he credits with making him a winner in the primaries: leadership, compassion and the need for a Washington outsider in the White House.

In two other changes, the Democratic presidential nominee is shortening his long, hectic days on the road to give him and his staff more rest, and aides are advising Carter to be less candid with reporters. Carter himself has said: "I think my free expression of views probably causes my problems."

The first presidential debate has forced an end to the "road testing of themes," said one Carter adviser as the Democratic presidential nominee took his campaign to the West Coast at week's end. "It caused all of us to spend quite a bit of time deciding what the candidacy was all about."

A national Associated Press poll of voter preferences showed the debate, last Thursday night in Philadelphia, to have been a virtual draw — but that President Ford had inched a bit closer to the Democratic presidential nominee by the time the encounter was over and the nation's television sets were off.

The debate was useful for spelling out Carter's positions on specific issues, the aides said, adding that the two debates still to come will be used the same way. But the aides said that while he is on the campaign trail Carter will concentrate on the broader themes of his primary election campaign.

Citing lackluster crowd reactions and news stories that the campaign lacked focus as still other reasons for the changes, Carter aides said the candidate has decided to re-emphasize a need for trust in government and for competent, strong leadership which can identify with the people.

They said he will paint Ford as an incapable leader with little compassion and with no understanding of the problems which economic adversity causes for the average American.

Second Red pilot defects to America

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The pilot of a Soviet mail plane has flown his aircraft to Iran and requested asylum in the United States, the Iranian government radio announced Saturday.

The pilot, flying a single engine Antinov-2, landed Thursday in the Azerbaijan region in northern Iran, bordering the Soviet border, the radio said.

The pilot, identified as Lt. Valentin Ivanovich Zachmiov, put the plane down on a gravel road and called loudly to approaching officials: "Asylum, asylum, asylum," the Tehran evening newspaper Kayhan reported.

It said the pilot identified himself as a Soviet army lieutenant and turned over a service pistol to officials who met him. He also offered them cigarettes and candy, which they turned down since they were observing the Moslem fast of Ramadan, the paper said.

The suit alleged that White was negligent in his handling of the bus. Also named as a defendent in the suit was the Pettis County R-4 School.

New tax reduction might be necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Joint Economic Committee says another tax cut may be in order next year to pump up the economy.

While Republicans and Democrats on the panel agreed, in a midyear economic report issued Saturday, that further tax reduction may be needed, they disagreed sharply on the role that federal spending should play in economic recovery.

The Democrats, headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, chairman of the committee, said that holding spending at current levels would restrict economic growth.

But the Republicans, echoing President Ford, said spending above current levels "would be destructive of the private sector's ability to continue creating new jobs at the high rate experienced in the past year."

The Democratic proposals on taxes were not specific, and mentioned a further tax cut only as one possible course of action next year.

On the other hand, the Republicans, in a summary prepared by Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, urged enactment of Ford's proposed increase in personal exemptions, from the present $750 to $1,000 per person.

The GOP went a step further in calling for tying tax rates to the cost of living. This "indexing" plan would keep a person's taxes level even though inflation pushed him into a higher tax bracket.

The economic prescriptions offered by the Republican and Democratic members of the committee sounded like a replay of last week's debate between Ford and Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

"Steady progress toward full employment should be an urgent goal of national policy over the next four years," said the Democrats.

"Taking people off unemployment compensation and putting them back to work in productive jobs is the best anti-inflation strategy I know of," added Humphrey.

Brown, for the Republicans, blamed today's 7.9 per cent unemployment on the large numbers of women and teenagers entering the labor force.

☆ King

(GAO) should audit members' office expenses and financing of standing committees. In addition, King said records of office expenses for members of Congress should be open to public review.

King also criticized the House Ethics Committee, saying it needs "to put some teeth into its efforts to police questionable behavior by elected representatives of the people."

Zeroing in on the turf of former Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, King said the powers of the House Administrative Committee, headed by Hays, should be restricted. "A handful of congressmen shouldn't have ironclad control over House financial operations," King declared.

Later, during a question and answer session, King was asked if he would hire his own secretary. Hays admitted hiring Elizabeth Ray as his secretary even though she could not type. King responded, "I will hire my own secretary, and I'll make sure she's a Republican, because they can type."

Among the other reforms called for by King was termination of subsidies to members of Congress for stationary funds, recording studios, cafeterias, dining rooms, and beauty and barber shops.

"Considering the salaries paid our congressmen and their staffs," said King, "I think they can pay the going rates for these services."

King vowed that, if elected, he "won't take advantage of the taxpayer by participating in lavish overseas junkets." He called on all members of Congress to "lead governmental efforts to economize."

Also among King's proposals for reform was a stipulation that congressional employes who submit false expense vouchers be prosecuted for perjury.

Touching on farm issues, King claimed that his support by "farmers for King" would give him greater input from the agricultural community on farm issues.

He attacked the present trend of rising food prices "while farm profits are declining." King said unions connected with agribusiness have gained increased wages during this same trend. He commented, "I don't think many of us have any trouble determining the reason for the price rise."

never know where that gold coin is going to be."

But for Walters and Ream, money is not the main attraction of treasure-hunting.

"The treasure can't be judged by the face value of the coins," Walters says. "Seventy-five per cent of the treasure is in the fresh air and sunshine. When you're out there, there is nobody griping, no telephones ringing. It's real peaceful."

Ream adds that treasure-hunting is particularly exciting "when you know you're in a good spot, like an old churchyard or cemetery. Every time you hear a beep, you can feel your heart pounding and your blood pressure rising. Once you dig up your first coin, you're hooked," he says.

Owning a metal detector, however, is not an automatic passport to someone's property. "We always ask permission before we work an area," Walters says, "and we always pocket the trash we uncover. What ruins it for everybody is the people who dig up a lot of holes, find trash and then let it lay. These are the people that give treasure-hunting a bad name."

The hobby is especially suited for retired persons, Walters adds. "It's very relaxing and slow-paced. You're outside just visiting with Mother Nature. And you never fail to get a surprise when you're out treasure-hunting."

Question Answer

My husband died recently. Our home is covered by a G.I. Loan. Am I responsible for paying the balance on our loan?

Your husband may have been insured under a mortgage redemption policy— if so then the balance outstanding on the loan is paid. A G.I. insured loan guarantees payment to the lender in the event of a default by the borrower - but does not repay the loan if the G.I. borrower dies.

Whether title to this property is vested in your husband's name alone, or in his name with you, it will be necessary for you to do certain things legally to accede to the ownership in your name.

Portrait differs, statistics don't

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter and President Ford drew very different portraits of Carter's record as governor in their debate Thursday night. Both were essentially accurate, even though they cited strikingly different statistics.

For example, Ford said the number of state employes went up 25 per cent during Carter's term. The Georgian said that the number of state workers rose by 2 per cent in his last year in office. Both were apparently right.

Carter said as governor "we had a bureaucratic mess like we have in Washington now. And we had 300 agencies, departments, bureaus, commissions, some fully budgeted, some not.... We eliminated 278 of them. We set up a simple structure of government that could be administered fairly and it was a tremendous success."

Ford did not dispute the specific figures, but the number of boards, bureaus and agencies eliminated has been contested previously by some Georgia officials. One planning specialist, for example, said there were 66 budgeted agencies before reorganization — not 300.

The number left is also in dispute. Carter's count of 22 major operating divisions does not include independent, operating agencies such as the Georgia Forest Research Council, various state retirement systems and parks authorities, all of which receive state funds.

Pressed during the debate about whether he planned to cut the over-all number of federal employes or merely put them in different departments with new labels, Carter said, "I can't say for sure that we would have fewer federal employes when I get out of office than when I came in."

He said the last year he was in office in Georgia (1974) the state budget was less than it was the year before, "which showed a great improvement."

Carter said there was a 2 per cent boost in the number of employes the last year he was governor, but it was a shift from administrative jobs "into the field to deliver better services. The same thing would be done at the federal level."

He cited a reduction in Transportation Department employes and the increase in the number of state workers at mental hospitals.

Ford said Carter's record in his four years as governor showed that "employes of the government in Georgia during his term of office went up over 25 per cent. And the figures also show that the bonded indebtedness of the state of Georgia during his governorship went up over 20 per cent."

State employment, not counting teachers, rose under Carter from 34,322 to 42,400, an increase of 24 per cent.

Knowledgeable observers in Atlanta said that the 2 per cent figure for the last year of Carter's term was nearly accurate, but a year-by-year breakdown was not immediately available.

During the term of Carter's predecessor, Lester Maddox, employment rose 45 per cent. Figures on the state's debt during Carter's term were not immediately available.

Ford also said Bureau of the Census figures showed "expenditures by the government went up over 50 per cent" during Carter's term.

The Georgia budget increased from $1.067 billion in fiscal 1971 to $1.675 billion in fiscal 1975, a boost of 58.5 per cent. The growth rate was 61 per cent under Maddox, who is the American Independent party's presidential candidate this year.

Ford also said that "there was some very interesting testimony given by Gov. Carter's successor, Gov. (George) Busbee, before a Senate committee a few months ago on how he found the Medicaid program when he came into office following Gov. Carter.

"He testified ... he found the Medicaid program in Georgia in shambles."

After the debate, a Busbee spokesman said he was not criticizing Carter when he testified — "The governor's testimony was directed at the Medicaid program as administered nationally."

Some items of debate difficult to check out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Among the most difficult figures to check are those tossed about by President Ford and Jimmy Carter in their argument over the size of the federal bureaucracy, which Carter says he wants to reorganize.

The figures both candidates used, quite likely the product of extensive research by expert advisers, are difficult to prove or disprove.

Carter said the federal bureaucracy is "a mess" and pledged to revise it to make it "economical, efficient, purposeful and manageable for a change."

It was a continuation of a campaign theme Carter sounded Sept. 9 when he vowed to seek "sunset" legislation that automatically would end unnecessary programs and agencies.

Carter, in a statement issued in Columbus, Ohio, had said Republicans oppose such a law.

Ford did not say whether he opposed such a law, but he said he already had been working to cut the bureaucracy.

"The first order I issued after I became president was to cut or eliminate the prospective 40,000 increase in federal employes that had been scheduled by my predecessor," Ford said.

About the time Ford became president the nation's unemployment rate was rising and the White House was working to stimulate hiring.

Ford said, "In the term that I've been president, some two years, we have reduced federal employment by 11,000."

The Census Bureau's latest figures are for 1974 and they show 2.9 million civilians employed by the federal government then. There are no more recent figures publicly available.

Ford and Carter strongly disagreed on whether the White House staff has grown or been cut under Ford.

Said Ford: "In the White House staff itself, when I became president we had roughly 540 employes. We now have about 485 employes, so we've made a rather significant reduction in the number of employes in the White House working for the president."

But Carter said: "We now have a greatly expanded White House staff. When Mr. Nixon went into the office, for instance, we had $3.5 million spent on the White House staff. That has escalated now to $60.5 million in the last Republican administration."

Neither said where he got his figures or which federal employes are being counted as White House staff members. This information is essential to checking the claims.

In January, Ford's proposed budget showed 533 permanent employes in the White House. The budget projected 500 employes for 1976 and 485 for 1977.

The Phoenix Nest

Edited by Martin Levin

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

Many people in this community were shocked when word reached here yesterday of the horrible mistake made by our government.

"How could it have happened?" everyone was asking. "Don't they have people to check on those things?"

At press time yesterday, the questions remained unanswered. But it was rumored that several federal agencies planned to launch full-scale investigations.

Meanwhile, people struggled to adjust to the strange new development. Many fell to pondering the appalling ramifications. One thing was clear: The mistake had been made. The brief communique made it official:

"THE GOVERNMENT REGRETS TO ANNOUNCE THAT THE NATION'S BICENTENNIAL YEAR IS 1977, NOT, REPEAT, NOT 1976."

And that meant, of course, that:

1. All celebrations have been held a year too early.

2. We've got to do it all over again.

Minutes after the bulletin was received, news reporters fanned out across the nation to record public reaction. Their findings — dismay, confusion, secret satisfaction.

The retail business community professed shock at the news, but reporters noted feverish gleams in the eye of individual merchants. Countless "buy-centennial" sales will have to be extended into the coming year.

A typical innocent victim of the new ruling was Lou Sends of this town, who heard the bad news on his 1776 commemorative table radio, the one with the red, white and blue plastic marching figures, the speaker in the snare drum, and the fife cleverly serving as the on-off and volume switch.

On hearing the communique, Sends burst into tears. "What am I gonna do with a radio that has 1776-1976 on the base?" he wailed. "It only gets one station, but that was okay, it was a great souvenir. Now it's nothin'."

Countless others found themselves in the same boat — owners of 1776-1976 mugs, watches, medals, vases, plaques, candlesticks, rugs, paring knives, hats, outdoor thermometers, lamps, neckties, cufflinks, earrings, pillows, plates, umbrellas, sundials, barometers, teapots, toasters, tumbler, knick- knacks gee-gaws and frou-frous.

"Maybe a hundred years from now they might be worth something as curios," commented a well-known local antique dealer. "But right now the big things in collectibles are the '77 items."

At least one bicentennial committee official was optimistic. "Changing all the sixes to sevens on tablets and signs will improve the nation's employment picture in the plastic and metal number-making trades. And because a seven is a lot easier to make than a six — just two straight lines — we'll get a lot more unskilled people involved this time around."

It was reported that plans are already in the works to issue a commemorative $7 bill for the upcoming bicentennial. It will feature a painting of Washington's victory at the Battle of Princeton on Jan. 3, 1777.

A few thoughtful citizens felt that since we must celebrate the bicentennial all over again, perhaps we should take the opportunity to correct past mistakes and do things a little differently.

For example, the crowds and traffic jams generated by New York's OpSail led to a proposal for staging a parade of Short Ships next July 4. No craft larger than those little boats with "KOOL" on the sail will be permitted to parade up the Hudson.

Officials predicted that a flotilla of slow styrofoam boats would attract less attention, and would not interfere with normal shipping traffic.

The event will be called OpSail '77.

Minnie dies old maid

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Minnie was a proud and virtuous old lady who despite her weight — three tons — attracted the affections of an amorous male, whose love she rejected.

Her last days were sad ones for the grand old woman of Brookfield Zoo. She was arthritic and had surrendered the reins of leadership of the zoo's elephant pack.

Zoo officials said Minnie was still an old maid when she died Wednesday at the age of 45.

"She spurned the only courtship we tried to arrange," zoo director Dr. George B. Rabb recalled Friday.

Minnie lived for two months with the tempestuous Ziggy, the huge rogue elephant who died at age 55 last year. Minnie didn't allow Ziggy to take any liberties with her, and after snubbing him, she never got another date.

"That was in 1972 and Minnie wasn't receptive," said Rabb, who is studying results of an autopsy to determine the cause of Minnie's death.

Unlike Ziggy, Minnie led a mostly uneventful life at the zoo. She went there in 1934 after appearing in an exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair.

Her only escapade came as a young girl on a cold January night in 1938. Zoo officials said she lifted a door bolt with her tusks and sneaked out through the kitchen of the elephant house, taking three doors and a railing with her. Outside she slipped on a patch of ice, and keepers found Minnie the next morning unhurt but bewildered because she couldn't get up.

The death of Minnie leaves the zoo with only four elephants, all females — a situation described as a harem without a sultan. One of the four, an elephant named Babe, was sent to the Portland, Ore., zoo in 1971 in an attempt to mate her with a male elephant there, "but she didn't cooperate," Rabb said.

The natural thing

Mrs. Laurie Otto, left, known to some people as the "Weed Lady," watches Mrs. Marion Coffee make a canvas of the natural landscaping in her yard. Instead of a manicured lawn, her yard features Queen-Ann's Lace, jack-in-the-pulpits, compass points, rattlesnake masters, shooting stars and dozens of naturally occuring plants of the countryside. Another good feature of the yard is that it doesn't require mowing.

Debate coaches give Ford lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four members of a five-member panel of college debate coaches gave a slight edge to President Ford in his debate with Jimmy Carter. The fifth gave Carter a narrow edge.

The Ford four said they leaned toward him principally because he did a better job of rebutting some of the Democratic nominee's arguments.

The five coaches from around the country scored the nationally televised event for The Associated Press using a point system similar to that used in collegiate debate competition.

Evaluating the candidates for their analysis, reasoning, evidence, organization, refutation and presentation, the coaches voted this way:

Dr. Barbara O'Connor, California State University at Sacramento, 22-19 for Ford.

Dr. Donn Parson, University of Kansas, 24-23 for Ford.

Prof. William Southworth, University of Redlands (Calif.), 27-24 for Ford.

Prof. James K. Unger, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., 15-13 for Ford.

Prof. Melissa Maxcy Wade, Emory University, Atlanta, 22-20 for Carter.

In the first 1960 presidential debate, John F. Kennedy was generally perceived as the winner over Richard M. Nixon because of appearance and image. However, none of the five judges Thursday night gave Carter or Ford a point advantage in the presentation category, the ability to create an image of competence and leadership.

The four panelists who thought Ford won particularly gave him an edge on handling the tax and bureaucracy questions.

"Ford pushed it to him on the tax cuts and bureaucracy cuts," said Dr. O'Connor. "Carter has answers on those things but he never gave them."

Southworth particularly gave Ford credit for his remark at the end of the tax discussion that the tax structure objected to by Carter was enacted by a primarily Democratic Congress.

Unger, the most critical of the panelists, said the refutations in general "seemed to be primarily directed to what the candidates hoped their opponents would say, rather than what their opponents did say. Certainly, though, President Ford seemed to be superior at this level of argument."

Parson thought Ford particularly scored with his argument that Carter can't complain both about Ford's vetoes of spending bills and about the budget deficit.

Wade gave Carter the edge on the basis that he was more responsive than the President in more areas, scored well on the inflation-jobs topic, and because Ford often responded on the basis of proposals rather than his record.

The judges all found the candidates somewhat nervous at the outset. Southworth thought Carter "really lacked the enthusiasm and zing he normally has in his delivery. In an area where I thought Carter would dominate, he really didn't."

Rate hike reductions possible

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Power rate increases could be cut in half over the next five years with passage of Propositon 1 on Missouri's referendum ballot Nov. 2, according to an organization seeking lower utility rates in the state.

Paul Schaefer, a coordinator for Citizens for Informed Electric Rates, charged Friday at a news conference that both Union Electric Co. of St. Louis and Kansas City Power and Light Co. have in effect forced their customers to become investors in them.

Supporting the citizens' organization was State Rep. James G. Baker of Kansas City, who is the Democratic nominee for Missouri attorney general.

The Missouri Public Service Commission ruled last December that a power company may pass on to its customers the finance charges and extra taxes it is paying on generating plants it is building but does not yet have in service. That decision on behalf of Union Electric has since been extended to Kansas City Power & Light.

"No business entity I know of finances future construction by raising the price of its product. I would hope the Public Service Commission would spend more time trying to create incentives for energy conservation than on things like this."

Best view yet

The most detailed photo ever obtained of the Mars satellite Phobos was taken recently by Viking Orbiter 2. The asteroid-sized moon has been photographed hundreds of times by spacecraft but never before at such close range (545 miles) or with this resolution. At this close distance Viking's camera was panned so that the picture would not be smeared. The experiment was a success, producing a sharp image of about half the craggy oval, which here measures 11 miles from top to bottom and 5.6 miles across. North pole is near upper left. The tiny moon is heavily cratered and shows ridging and chains of small craters. Origin of the ridging is a puzzle which may be solved later in the mission. The camera-panning technique used here will allow taking even more remarkably high-resolution pictures of Phobos, Deimos and Mars where flybys of a very few hundred miles will be possible.

Change has come, controversy remains

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Episcopal Church has ended a centuries-old policy of males-only in the priesthood, but the controversy over ordination of women is far from finished.

Like Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy, the Episcopal Church traces its line of priestly ordination back to the time of Jesus and his Apostles.

When the Church decided last week to admit women, it was a major change, with far-reaching impact on the current climate of collaboration among denominations.

Several Roman Catholic groups, pressing for women priests in their church, hailed the action at the 13-day convention here. But the decision also troubled some Roman Catholic and Orthodox leaders about its effect on unity efforts. It also keenly dismayed many Episcopalians, including nearly half the lay and clergy delegates who argued and voted against it.

"No surrender," some of them vowed afterward, but also "no desertion."

Decisions both for women in the priesthood and for a revised version of the Church's time-honored Book of Common Prayer left a backwash of anxiety and strain among the country's 3 million Episcopalians but without indications of major schism.

"Many ... are frustrated by uncertainty and fear," said a House of Bishops' pastoral letter issued at the end of the convention Thursday.

Amid the strong differences, the bishops urged members to stick together in love, trust and faith, to do nothing "to breach our oneness in Christ" and to follow "his steps to a new unity in diversity."

That diversity undoubtedly will exist, with some saying they will not accept women priests or the new book of worship.

But the Church, which combines both Protestant and Catholic elements, always has included wide differences in interpretation and practice, as has the worldwide Anglican Communion of 65 million. The Episcopal Church is one of 22 independent national branches.

"We've arrived at a greater and clearer recognition of the breadth of this church," presiding Bishop John M. Allin said, insisting there is ample room for varying views and practices.

Yet there were deep worries about resistance to the changed Church practices. "I'm filled with foreboding about the future," said Bishop Stanley Atkins of Eau Claire, Wis., one of 37 bishops who said they would not allow women priests in their dioceses.

But he, like the others, discounted fears of schism.

"The church has been spiritually enriched and now has the resources to move ahead with its mission," said the Rev. Dr. John B. Coburn, outgoing president of the House of Deputies, soon to be consecrated bishop of Boston.

One coalition of 15 unofficial Episcopal groups, the Fellowship of Concerned Churchmen, charged the church had gone into heresy by admitting women priests. The group planned a meeting early in 1977 to decide what to do about it.

But that faction also advised against departure from the church.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, F. Donald Coggan, spiritual leader of the worldwide Anglican Communion, said that out of the tensions over the decision made here to ordain women, "music can come and good can come."

Some other Anglican bodies, including the Anglican Church of Canada, also have authorized women priests.

In the U.S. church, it will become lawful Jan. 1.

As for the 15 women whose irregular ordinations in 1974 and 1975 brought the issue to a head, the bishops approved a simple public ceremonies to affirm the women's priesthood.

The new version of the church's Book of Common Prayer is the most extensive revision in 427 years of the book's history. It makes worship more flexible and puts various rites in contemporary language.

While the new book is authorized for use beginning the first Sunday in Advent, Nov. 28, final ratification of it under the church's constitution must await the next convention in 1979.

Part of city plan is rejected

Sound Off

QUESTION — The first of three scheduled presidential debates has been held. Based on what you saw and heard, do you believe such debates serve as a useful tool in helping to make a decision on who is the best candidate?

Comments and signed letters are appreciated.

Name will not be used if checked here. ☐

YES ☐ NO ☐

Sound Off is a regular feature of The Democrat-Capital in which readers may express their views on topics of current interest. Clip and return ballot to The Democrat-Capital, 700 South Massachusetts, Sedalia, Mo., 65301.

The idea of rezoning a stretch of land in the northern section of Sedalia for residential purposes received a unanimous no vote from those Democrat-Capital readers who responded to last Sunday's Sound Off question. A total of 11 replies came in.

The question was: "One feature of the proposed city plan, on which three days of hearings were held last week, involves rezoning the 182-acre Parkhurst tract in northwest Sedalia from industry to residential. The idea behind the change is to encourage new housing development in this area as a means of halting the general decline of the northside. Based on what you know of the plan, do you favor this idea?"

One reader wrote, "My answer to Sound Off is no. The proposed city plan is set up to keep the blacks on the northside! Why not tear down houses that are run down or are ready to be condemned and then rebuild? This property...has industry all around it now. The man that owns it makes jobs with his industry and jobs are what we need. Give us the factories and the jobs and we will build the houses..."

Pat Allen, no address given, wrote, "I do not favor this idea because I do not feel the area is suitable for residential development because of the following: 1) There is a rail spur through the center of the property and a main railroad on the southern boundry, and railroad traffic is undesirable in a residential neighborhood. 2) It appears unlikely that there would be enough school-age children in the area to justify locating an elementary school there, which would mean busing the children that did live there. 3) This idea would tend to perpetuate segregated housing. 4) The committee of industrial development specialists recently rated this property ahead of the site picked for the city's industrial park."

Another reader had this view: "It has not been very many months ago that the city thought it was one of the best places for their industrial park. If it was the best for industrial development then, I believe it is the same now. How would another housing development improve what is already there? Start with areas that should be cleaned up. There is plenty of space then for housing."

A reader who asked not to be named wrote, "I personally would be opposed to the idea of encouraging new housing in an area that already has a number of commercial and industrial firms there and in operation...While it is important that we halt the decline of the northside, it would appear that more thought should be given the idea. One can readily see that planning was lacking as we survey some of our better housing built in years past next to large manufacturing plants and railroad tracks. Protection from adverse influences and freedom from certain environmental hazards enhances the desirability of a neighborhood because the health, comfort and safety of the residents are not threatened."

One note, signed "A northeast resident," said, "The best way to implement the plan ... toss it in the trash."

And finally this view: "Since industrial development has been started in this area, and most of the northside residents are blacks, it would appear this is an attempt to maintain segregated housing in Sedalia.

Four former policemen get prison terms

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four ex-police detectives who admitted stealing department store merchandise were sentenced to four years in prison Friday by Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Tom J. Stubbs, who then placed them on three years' probation.

The four men had resigned from the Kansas City police force last March after pleading guilty to theft charges in connection with a series of thefts from Sears, Roebuck & Co. stores.

Placed on probation were John C. King, 43; Ferdinand Shore, 48; James W. Smith, 45, and Carl M. Halteman, 53.

Ray L. Tye, 42, a security chief for Sears and a former police officer, was placed on probation earlier on an identical charge, but still faces federal charges of conspiracy, theft, interstate transportation of stolen property and theft from interstate shipments.

Indictments against Tye and three other men last month eliminated a theft and fencing ring that dealt in hundreds of thousands of dollars in stolen goods, according to the FBI.

Four drown when car goes into a lake

BOLIVER, Mo. (AP) — A Humansville mother and her three children drowned Friday night when their car apparently rolled into Pomme de Terre Lake.

The Highway Patrol identified the victims as Nancy Wylie, 36, her daughter Karen Myer, 8, her twin brother Kevin Myer, 8, and another son, Jeffrey Wylie, 3.

The vehicle went in from a boat launching ramp about 11:45 p.m. at Boliver landing in Polk County about 12 miles north of Boliver.

Yankee Clipper is taking his success in stride

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — The tall, straight-backed man with silver hair had managed to penetrate only a small portion of the hotel lobby when he was besieged by a cluster of middleaged women.

"Oh, Mr. DiMaggio, may I have your autograph?" a motherly type with thick-lens spectacles gushed. "I drink your coffee all the time."

"Thank you, ma'am," Joe DiMaggio responded politely. "Where are you ladies from?"

"Vancouver."

"That's a very nice city," DiMaggio said in a low voice.

A moment later DiMaggio and a couple of friends were wending their way toward the coffee shop when they encountered another barrier: a cordon of conventioneers wearing name tags on their coat lapels.

"Hey, Joe," barked one of the men. "My brother and I followed your career all the way. We saw every game we could. Will you sign one for my brother? He'll go out of his mind."

DiMaggio smiled graciously. "What's his name?" he asked.

"Tommy."

With broad, bold strikes, Joe etched: "Best regards, Tommy, Joe DiMaggio," and returned the pad.

"You're the greatest, Clipper," the man said, giving DiMaggio a slap on the back. Then he reached up to squeeze Joe's left arm. "All muscle, you oughta still be hitting 'em, Clipper."

DiMaggio winced but said nothing.

"How do you stand all this all the time, Joe?" a friend asked. "People stopping you, interrupting you at dinner, banging you on the back?"

"The airports are the worst, when you have a lot of things to attend to," DiMaggio replied. "It takes the kick out of traveling. But you can't slough anybody off. After all, you have to be glad they remember you."

They still remember Joe DiMaggio, a quarter of a century after he took his last classic swing of the bat for the New York Yankees. He is one of the last of America's classic sportsfolk heroes, an impeccable, dignified contrast to the antiheroes, with their agents, presidential salaries and controversies, now are populating the world of sports.

Older generations recall the rhythm and effortless grace that made him perhaps the greatest baseball centerfielder of all-time and the booming bat that helped propel the Yankees to 10 American League titles and nine World Series championships between 1936 and 1951.

In living rooms around the country, housewives see him on their television screens as a pleasant and persuasive middle-aged man in a conservative business suit extolling the merits of an electric coffee maker called Mr. Coffee.

If DiMaggio was impressive in Yankee pinstripes — 6 feet, 1½ inches tall, a lean 190 pounds who moved like flowing water — he is much more handsome and striking as a man approaching his 62nd birthday.

He has retained his athletic figure, paying close attention to diet and exercise. He is flat-bellied, straight as a poker, less than 10 pounds over his playing weight.

Silver gray hair has softened his strong Italian features. Dark eyebrows frame dark brown, expressive eyes. His face is deeply tanned, reflecting hours on the golf course, and is virtually unlined.

Off the screen as well as on it, he exudes a warmth and open friendliness that was foreign to him as a player. He has come to like people. He enjoys being around them.

★ ★ ★

His closest friends are people he met over the years — a business man who flies him around in a private plane, a shirt-maker, a pub keeper, a publicist. He has fierce loyalties.

In his playing days, DiMaggio was timid and retiring. He was known as a loner even among his teammates. He was not a party guy. He avoided controversy and fanfare. He guarded his private life studiously.

Today he is an attractive bachelor, twice wed to movie actresses in marriages that didn't work out, a restless man apparently torn between conflicting desires.

On the one hand, as a heritage from his baseball days, he has an urge to travel, see new things and meet new people. On the other, there is the temptation to pack it up and retire to a life of ease on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf where he grew up as one of the nine offsprings of an immigrant Italian fisherman.

"I find it always good to get home and rest," he said. "But after a while, I get edgy and am off again."

Within the past few weeks, DiMaggio's odyssey has taken him from San Francisco to New York, Boston, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Toronto and a trio of cities in Pennsylvania: Erie, Harrisburg and Williamsport.

He attended the Little League baseball finals at Williamsport. He emceed a Scout-O-Rama as a favor to a banker friend. He attended a sports carnival in Toronto. Most of his appearances are made in the interest of good will.

"I am cutting down on old timers games," DiMaggio said. "This year, I went to the two in New York and also the Angels' game in Los Angeles. I went to Los Angeles as a favor to my old friend, Red Patterson (Angels' president), but there was another reason, too. I got a chance to take my granddaughters to Disneyland."

Joe's granddaughters — Kathy, 14, and Paula, 12 — have brought fresh enthusiasm to the ex-ball player's life. They are the daughters of his son, Joe Jr., by the Clipper's first wife, Dorothy Arnold. Joe Jr. is a successful trucking executive in Northern California.

Home for DiMaggio is a brownstone house in the Marina section of San Francisco which he purchased for his parents nearly 40 years ago and, after their death, shared for a brief time with his second wife, the late Marilyn Monroe.

Now the house is cared for by Joe's sister, Marie, who also handles a big part of Joe's correspondence and appointments. Joe's mail is voluminous, having mushroomed with his television commercials. He doesn't have an agent or a secretary.

"Sometimes I am pretty hard to catch up with," Joe said with an amused smile. "All my mail and telephone calls go the restaurant. I pick it up when I return to the Coast."

The restaurant is DiMaggio's Restaurant, a familiar eaterie on Fisherman's Wharf, built in 1937, formerly jointly owned by Joe and brother Dom but now run by Joe's older brothers, Tom and Vincent.

It is a regular hangout for the former Yankee star when he is home. There he hobnobs with old cronies and fishermen, who refer to him as "The Clipper" and treat him as one of the home folks, not as a hero. DiMaggio likes that.

★ ★ ★

When DiMaggio attends old timers games, he usually shows up not in his familiar Yankee uniform with the big "5" on the back but in a dark suit, white shirt and tie. An exception this year was the Yankee show at which Joe agreed to don the uniform but refused to play in the two-inning game.

He talked about this recently during a moment of relaxation in Las Vegas, where he was attending a celebrity bocci tournament.

"Let's go into the bar and have a drink," a friend said.

"You know I don't drink," DiMaggio said. "I am going to the coffee shop."

In the coffee shop, he ordered peaches and cottage cheese.

"Is that all?" the waitress asked.

"That's all," replied DiMaggio.

"It's my ulcers," he said. "They give me fits. I haven't smoked in 10 years—used to smoke three packs a day. I seldom drink—not that I am a prude or hypocritical, understand. I never particularly cared for it."

DiMaggio then said the reason he did not suit up and take swings at bat in the old timers games was largely the same one that brought about his retirement in 1951.

"I don't want to get out there and embarrass myself," he said. "I had a lot of injuries when I played, aches and pains that are still around. My back kills me most of the time. I had operations on both my heels for bone spurs. I have arthritis and tendinitis.

"If I took a cut at a ball it would be a swing like an old woman. I don't want people to remember me that way. Right now, I couldn't throw a baseball from here to that table over there, unless I did it underhand."

DiMaggio's venture into television commercials has given his life a new dimension although he sometimes appears to feel slighted by the sport on which he left such a powerful imprint.

He was one of the giants of the game, succeeding Babe Ruth as the great performer and gate attraction of the country's most successful ball club. He was the first $100,000-a-year player. He made the American League All-Star team in every one of his 13 seasons and three times was voted the Most Valuable Player. Historians say his 56-game hitting streak in 1941 is a record that may never be broken.

After his retirement, DiMaggio did a stint as Yankee broadcaster and batting coach, then spent two years—1968-69— as vice president and batting coach with Charlie Finley's Oakland A's. He has been out of baseball 10 years.

A few years ago, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn offered DiMaggio a role as a baseball ambassador-at-large. Then came the matter of salary. "Ten thousand dollars," the commissioner said. Insulted, Joe walked out.

Later, when George Steinbrenner II took over as owner of the Yankees, influential friends suggested that the Yankees could make use of Joe's public relations attributes. Steinbrenner discussed it with Joe. Joe asked for details. He never heard another word.

"A friend asked me about making a commercial for the Bowery Savings Bank about five years ago," Joe said. "I was hesitant at first. I was afraid I would freeze on camera. But it turned out well.

"Then the Mr. Coffee people approached me. The agency said it had screened 200 personalities and I had been picked. But my contract runs out this year."

Trade journals say that, largely, from DiMaggio's exposure, the once small and struggling firm grew into a multimillion-dollar business with a major share of the electric coffeemaker market.

DiMaggio disdains all other type of TV appearances, particularly talk shows.

"They don't want me to talk baseball; they just want to pry into my private life," Joe said.

DiMaggio continues to be keenly sensitive about details of his marriage with Marilyn Monroe. They were married in January 1954, and the marriage dissolved in 1955, victim of a clash of temperaments. Joe was quiet and averse to publicity; Marilyn was ebullient and obsessed with a screen career.

After the divorce, DiMaggio grew cool toward onetime show business friends. He never forgave the the tinsel and fakery of Hollywood for "destroying a beautiful life." He once said he hadn't seen a movie in eight years.

When Marilyn Monroe died in 1962 it was DiMaggio who made the funeral arrangements and dictated who could and could not attend the services.

A deep devotion for the actress lingers, friends say, and no one dares raise her name in Joe's presence.

The Yankee Clipper has fresh flowers placed on her grave twice a week.

Waldheim expected to lead U.N. 5 more years

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations is holding elections this year too, and it looks as if Kurt Waldheim will win another five years as secretary-general.

But the tall, hard-working Austrian hasn't been out pumping hands, debating opponents or making promises. In fact, he hasn't even announced his candidacy. Like other diplomatic maneuverings at the United Nations, campaigning for office is done largely in hushed tones.

The selection of the secretary-general rests with the five veto-wielding permanent members of the Security Council — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. The process of achieving approval from such a politically volatile group is so sensitive that no incumbent would dare announce his candidacy until he had the backing of all five.

Four powers are said to have given Waldheim the go-ahead. The Chinese have also tacitly signaled Waldheim they expect no problem, but they reportedly want the full backing of the Third World majority before they make it formal.

So unless he blunders before the Security Council takes up the issue, probably in November, Waldheim is due for another five years at the helm of the troubled world body.

The U.N. Charter lists the secretary-general only as the "chief administrative officer" of the organization — which has thousands of employes in 138 countries. But as the highest officer of what is the closest the world has to a global parliament, the secretary-general carries moral and political clout in international affairs.

In his first five years in office, Waldheim has earned high marks for his personal brand of quiet diplomacy, tireless globetrotting and game ceremonial appearances. His travels have taken him to 97 countries, some that didn't exist when he took office.

The secretary-general has also gained broad respect for his ceaseless behind-the-scenes efforts to mediate conflicts in Vietnam, Cyprus, the Mideast and Lebanon.

Critics of Waldheim point to U.N. silence on some of these issues as a failing of the secretary-general. But veteran diplomats reject this. "Every one of the problems the U.N. fails to solve is something that everybody else has failed to solve," says a U.S. official.

Waldheim is better than U Thant or Dag Hammarskjold, he added, referring to two past secretaries-general. "He has a more sophisticated view of what the secretary-general can do, moving about with a great tact and great deal of flexibility."

Waldheim's supporters point to his persistent efforts to have the General Assembly pass measures against international terrorism, and to his strong pleas for an end to the bloodshed in Lebanon. Both issues have been kept out of the assembly by Arabs and Africans.

The early consensus on Waldheim results partly from a desire among big powers to avoid the divisive and painful struggles of past years.

Waldheim was chosen in 1971 because he was the only one of 12 candidates to avoid a bigpower veto. His strongest appeal was that he came from a small country with impeccable credentials as neutral, democratic, Socialist and developed.

His candidacy is now buttressed by a solid record. Even so, hopefuls and favorites are waiting in the wings in the unlikely event that Waldheim should stumble or fall.

Some of the names most frequently mentioned:

—Luis Echeverria, who finishes his term as president of Mexico this year, is the only hopeful who has openly reached for Waldheim's job. The Mexican has avidly courted the Third World in recent years, but diplomats say these efforts have alienated the West.

—Hamilton S. Amerasinghe has had wide exposure as president of this year's General Assembly and head of the Law of the Sea Conference. But the dapper bachelor from Sri Lanka failed in the 1971 race, and Westerners would probably be suspicious of his country's Socialist line.

Other names frequently bandied about include Tanzanian Ambassador Salim A. Salim; Argentina's popular Ambassador Carlos Ortiz de Rozas, who got the most votes in 1971 but ran into a Soviet veto, and Pakistan's Ambassador Iqbal A. Akhund, president of the Economic and Social Council.

Waldheim was born in 1918 near Vienna, was drafted into the German army in World War II and suffered a leg wound on the Eastern front, enabling him to return to his studies at the University of Vienna, where in 1943 he met Elisabeth Ritschel, a tall brunette. They were married in 1944 and have two daughters and a son.

The 6-foot-3 diplomat made his way through the ranks of the Austrian foreign service, including a stint as ambassador to the United Nations. In 1968 he was named foreign minister, and in 1970 he made an unsuccessful race for the presidency of Austria. Soon after he was elected to the U.N. post.

As secretary-general, he receives about $92,000 in salary and expenses, plus a Manhattan town house residence and a limousine.

Schweiker: where now?

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The man who jolted friends and political acquaintances by becoming Ronald Reagan's vice presidential running mate two months ago is at work mending fences and contemplating his future.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker says his options include the 1978 govrnor's race in Pennsylvania, seeking re-election to the Senate in 1980 or perhaps a run at the presidency that year.

And he would rather forget what happened in the last few months.

"I think that's behind us," he says.

Schweiker is among the most liberal Republicans in the Senate. He agreed to run as Ronald Reagan's vice presidential candidate in the last month of the conservative former California governor's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

That effort ended with nomination of President Ford at the Republican National Convention last month in Kansas City. "My job, as I see it, is to work for the Ford ticket," Schweiker said in a telephone interview this past week.

Schweiker was supposed to bring liberal support to the Reagan candidacy. At the GOP convention he battled with longtime friend Drew Lewis for the allegiance of Pennsylvania's delegates. Schweiker lost.

Lewis, Ford's state campaign chairman, and other Republicans felt Schweiker sold out his liberal-credentials for a chance to become vice president. The result in Kansas City was 93 votes for Ford, 10 for Reagan, and a cooling of the relationship between Lewis and the senator.

Schweiker wants to restore that friendship and wants advice from Lewis on his future. Lewis was the GOP's unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1974 and remains a power in state party politics.

"I think there's no question we're going to get back to being good friends," Schweiker said.

And the future?

"I have no great desire to run for governor at this point, but I don't rule it out," Schweiker said. "I would expect to run again for the Senate, but I'll keep my options open. I may look at the national picture."

Does that include a shot at the presidency?

"I wouldn't want to cross that bridge until I come to it. But that's an option. I've gotten a tremendous increase in my recognition factor and I'm strengthening my ties with the conservative wing of the party," said the 50-year-old Schweiker, now serving his second term in the Senate.

Schweiker said his involvement with the Ford campaign began weeks ago when Ford invited about 10 congressmen and senators to breakfast.

His return to the Ford camp is part of the fence-mending movement which included a Sept. 17 address to a state Republican fund-raiser honoring retiring congressmen.

"I see more common ground between the two wings of the party than I think leaders in either wing see," he said.

WE'RE ALWAYS ON WHEELS

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — America has turned into a nation on wheels around the house as well as on the road.

According to economists at Goodyear, the rubber industry will build seven million tires next year for yard tractors, cultivators, spreaders, wheel barrows, snow throwers, dune buggies, leafers, go-carts, trailers and other "miscellaneous" vehicles.

Newspaper is gutted by fire

ALTOONA, Kan. (AP) — The Altoona Tribune, a weekly newspaper with a reputation for outspoken editorials, was gutted by a fire Thursday night that officials said may have been set by arsonists.

The fire destroyed the newspaper's interior except for a photographic darkroom, said Fire Chief Morris Forsythe. He added arson was suspected but declined to say why. The state fire marshal's office was investigating.

The fire came after several editorials were critical of the city council and the local fire department but 28-year-old publisher Garry Stanley refused to say publicly whether he thinks the fire was started intentionally.

Stanley added, however, "There's larger forces involved in this. It's bigger than me. I need help."

One resident of the town of 475 persons said the paper had created friction with its editorials against city government, including a recent one about the city hiring a relative of a council member.

"In a way I feel sorry for Mr. Stanley, that he does want to do something," said the resident, who asked to remain anonymous. "He goes about it sometimes in the wrong way.

"I have said for quite a while that we're just sitting on a powder keg, and this might be the fuse that lights it. I hope not."

At wit's end

Mother of sons

By ERMA BOMBECK

One doesn't like to make trouble among the sexes, but I firmly believe mothers of sons age faster.

That information comes right out of the aging mouths of mothers of sons. According to them, boy babies are born with an extra gene. You would recognize the technical name right away if I told you, but generically it's called the "Drive You Nuts!" gene (DYN).

The DYN gene is fully developed at birth, allowing a 50-pound toddler to pull over an entire bookcase, heave a bowl of cereal 500 feet and flush a pair of orthopedic shoes down the commode.

The DYN never stops working. One mother of 11 sons (a young woman — she looked like Jane Goodall left out in the sun for dead) said she never had a moment's peace from the time they rode a wagon down the front stairs and broke two steps to lifting the lid of the washer and discovering 27 soggy worms and one empty band-aid can. She confessed she kept a pint of bourbon in the trash compacter since she knew the boys would never discover it there.

Another mother of a 17-year-old with an overactive DYN gene said her son ran over a teacher's car ... with his feet. One day the P.E. class had a race to the field. When he saw the top of the car (which was parked on a lower level) he used it as a shortcut and walked over the roof. Later, his 13½ shoe size and 157 pounds matched the $267 worth of damages perfectly. If something like this could happen when he's on foot, she mused, think what will happen when he starts to drive the car.

And what mother of a son with a DYN gene has not cringed when her son was hired in a fancy restaurant as a bus boy. One reported the specialty of the restaurant that employed her son was fish, lobster, shrimp, crab, etc., all served in a bucket for two. He dropped it right in the lap of an elderly gentleman.

"The customer was great about it," she said. "Excused himself and came back 10 minutes later completely dressed in a change of clothes. It made me wonder how this man knew he was going to meet my son."

What these women are saying about sons is true. The aging process is stepped up when a boy child is born. If mothers of daughters want to challenge that statement, they're welcome.

But I should know. I have two sons. As to why I look so eternally young ... I eternally lie.

Biggest grant yet awarded

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Bi-State Development Agency in St. Louis has been awarded $16,379,156 — the largest single commitment for improvements in the bi-state bus system — for 180 new buses and 14 specially equipped 19-passenger vans.

Sixty-six of the buses will replace obsolete equipment, while the remaining 114 are scheduled to provide service improvements, according to an announcement Friday by the White House and the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The 14 special vans are aimed at improving service to the elderly and handicapped, according to Department of Transportation officials.

The program had already provided $47 million to buy 756 new buses for the system since 1968.

DOUBLE DUTY

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Raking leaves has become double duty for W.A. Campbell.

He uses two rakes and two hands at the same time and this, he says, cuts in half the time he spends at the task.

"I've done some hard work in my time and I've used my left arm and hand about as much as my right," Campbell, 72, said.

Reagan is given a friendly reception

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — It was as if the news of the Republican National Convention had never reached Springfield and they still thought Ronald Reagan was running for President.

But the former California governor was on the campaign trail for someone else Friday night as he spoke to about 1,000 enthusiastic supporters who attended a fund-raising dinner here for John Ashcroft, GOP state attorney general candidate.

The enthusiasm, however, was for Reagan, who scored his first post-primary victory here three months ago in his drive for the Republican presidential nomination. Those attending the Ashcroft dinner had not forgotten Reagan's drive and displayed a sign that said, "President Reagan in 1980."

Reagan was also stumping for the Republican platform, which he helped draft at the national convention last month in Kansas City.

Comparing the platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties, Reagan said they amounted to contracts which the voters would sign Nov. 2. He said that if the nation signed up with the Democratic party, its citizens would become "timid sheep with government the shepherd."

He criticized the Democratic platform for its stance on fiscal responsibility, energy, welfare, maintenance of troops in South Korea and defense of Taiwan.

He said it was the job of every Republican to "take the message to every citizen we can reach" to compare the platform of the two parties.

"The Republican party platform is the standard to rally around," Reagan said.

Only once during the 45-minute speech did Reagan mention President Gerald R. Ford by name, but he consistently preached the accomplishments of the GOP platform.

Reagan arrived in Springfield after a campaign trip to New Orleans and said he thought Ford "had the edge" over Democrat Jimmy Carter in the presidential debate of Thursday night.

Asked what he thought was Carter's greatest liability at this point, Reagan replied, "His interview with Playboy magazine."

A spokesman for Ashcroft said between $32,000 and $38,000 would be raised for the former state auditor in his campaign against Democrat James Baker of Kansas City for the attorney general's race.

Hog inventory in U.S. at new high

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Agriculture Department reports from states keeping quarterly tabs on the hog business reaffirm that more pork is on the way to market for the next several months after a year of restricted supplies and high retail prices.

The inventory of hogs and pigs on Sept. 1 in those 14 states reached 48.7 million head, the highest since the 50.2 million of September 1974 and a 17 per cent expansion from a year ago.

Moreover, the department's Crop Reporting Board said, producers intend to have 2.4 million sows bred between Sept. 1 and Dec. 1, up 16 per cent from a year ago, and 2.2 million bred between then and March 1.

That winter farrowing plan presents a level 26 per cent greater than the period ending February 1975, when the cutback in numbers was bottoming out.

Improving the supply picture still more is the report that average litter size in the summer months was 7.31 piglets per sow, compared to 7.19 a year before and 7.07 two summers ago.

The number of hogs kept for breeding was up 13 per cent at 6.8 million, while the number earmarked for feeding for the market rose 18 per cent, the board said.

The states reporting were Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina and Texas.

The June-August pig crop of 18.1 million head was 21 per cent larger than a year before and 6 per cent above 1974, with 19 per cent more sows bred than in the corresponding 1975 period.

Producers are feeling the effects of the supply increase they have generated in response to high prices, other USDA reports showed.

An Economic Research Service comparison of farm, wholesale and retail prices for a selected marketbasket of 66 U.S. farm-produced foods showed a monthly average price in August of $44 per 100 pounds for barrows and gilts at seven leading north-central-states markets.

That price is a drop of 8.8 per cent from July, 10 per cent from May and 24.3 per cent from August 1975.

That report also shows, however, that retail prices paid by consumers have not fallen at anywhere near those rates, which is important because of the effect of consumer demand on the future farrowing plans of the producers when feed costs are rising again.

The ERS found a pork price of $1.374 a pound in August, a drop of 1.7 per cent from July, 4.2 per cent from May and 12.7 per cent from August 1975. The price is a composite average of prices found by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and supplied by food-chains, adjusted for the volumes sold in meat-counter "specials."

The survey found that wholesalers, or meatpackers, have cut back their prices at close to the same rate as the drop in price packers pay the producers — indicating that the cost-and-profit margins of distributors and supermarkets are consuming the difference.

USDA economists say they expect consumers to find lower pork prices and turn more to that meat this fall and winter, as beef and veal prices rise seasonally.

Record pork prices took the BLS retail-meat price index to a peak last October but they then dropped 7 per cent in the first half of 1976 from the last half of 1975. That level was still 18 per cent above January-June 1975.

Per capita consumption of pork peaked at 61.9 pounds two years ago, dropped 17.6 per cent last year to 51 pounds and is expected to average near 52.5 pounds by year's end, the economists say.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration this week hiked the manufacturing-milk support price for the second time this year, breaking its once-a-year pattern. But Sen. William Proxmire of dairy-rich Wisconsin called it a "trifling increase."

Readjusting the dollar figure to 80 per cent of parity, the typical level chosen by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, "demonstrates the total indifference of this administration to the genuine needs of the Wisconsin dairy farmer," Democrat Proxmire said in a statement Thursday.

"That kind of stand-pattism is a slap to Wisconsin's dairy farmers," he said. Persistent pockets of drought have increased their costs so much that a support greater than 80 per cent is justified, he said.

Market prices for milk and most dairy products now far exceed the support levels.

Butz said in his announcement Monday that the quarterly review of the situation he made, under Democratic pressure, showed a hike he passed up in July was needed now, mainly because of the drought-related costs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 cotton crop in the Soviet Union may total 2.78 million metric tons, or 12.8 million bales, if weather is favorable through October, reports a U.S. team that just returned from a three-week tour in that country.

Such a crop would be below the 1974 U.S.S.R. record and a 6.7 per cent increase over last year's harvest.

With the organization of the Pettis County Citizens Patrol, which now numbers over 425 men, rural thefts have been greatly reduced. These men act as the "eyes & ears" of the Sheriff's Dept. and as such deserve training & assistance. I would propose a training program, conducted by trained personnel, to provide these volunteers with guidelines and policies to operate within. It feel this is very important, both for their own protection and the public.

Administration cuts back allocation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford - administration has reduced slightly the proportion of wheat allocations in the long-term credit side of the Food for Peace program for the coming fiscal year.

Most things considered, that wouldn't be unusual this year if it weren't for repeated recent assurances to grain farmers of a new emphasis on wheat in export programs.

The initial allocations for the year beginning Oct. 1, developed by an interdepartmental panel said to be dominated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, call for 3.43 million metric tons of wheat to go to 17 countries,

Wheat amounts to 79 per cent of the total food commodities allocated, compared to 80.5 per cent last year.

Agriculture Department reports this summer, after fiscal year 1976 ended on June 30, said that agreements under Title I for wheat "sales" totalled 3.98 million metric tons together for fiscal 1976 and the three-month transition quarter before fiscal 1977 starts a new federal bookkeeping period.

But after the allocations were announced Wednesday by Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Bell, a spokesman said 4.09 million metric tons, the initial 12-month planning figure for fiscal 1976, is the proper one to use in comparing the new 3.43 million-ton target.

Doing so means the wheat volume was dropped about 16 per cent. The program's Title I budget was decreased about 12 per cent.

Actually, the announced plan calls for eventual easy-credit sales of 3.61 million metric tons of wheat. But Bell said $38.9 million of the program's $866 million budget would be held in reserve to meet changing world needs and individual countries' situations.

The initial allocations could change, he said, because final U.S. government approvals of the deals and agreements with the foreign countries "generally ... are yet to be made." Nonetheless, Bell said a month ago he hoped to move one-third of the foodgrains in the first quarter of the fiscal year.

The initial allocation of $827.1 million worth of wheat, rice, feedgrains, vegetable oil, cotton and tobacco show sizeable increases in planned shipments to Portugal, Sri Lanka, Indonesia, Tanzania, Zaire, Haiti and Guinea and new allocations for the Phillipines, Senegal, Sudan and Zambia.

The allocations are devised by the interagency staff committee on Food for Peace concessional-sales and donations aspects.

A USDA official heads the committee, which meets secretly, but both insiders and Senate critics of the program's direction have repeatedly said Kissinger's policies dominate decisions.

Bell's announcement showed that, of the allocations made so far, 19.7 per cent of the Title I funds or $162.6 million are earmarked for Egypt, 14.6 per cent or $120.8 million for South Korea, 12.5 per cent or $103.5 million for Bangladesh and 6 per cent or $50 million for Portugal.

D.C. Current

Appearance dominated debate

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The first of the debates is now over. What did they mean? Did voters change their minds? The pressure on the President and Governor Carter and the questioning reporters was not easy and they must all be relieved. The two remaining debates should be easier, but they might be more difficult because they will know how the public, their friends, families and staffs reacted.

While the participants conscientiously defended their issues, the millions who watched them were more moved by their appearances, their voices, their gestures and other characteristics than what they said. It was the President, acting like a president but using his midwestern phraseology and football expressions competing with Jimmy Carter's southern accent, his grin and personal appeal. There was some nervousness in both of them, caution that they might accidentally choose the wrong phrase or word and upon reflection they might have acknowledged, "I wish I had said that."

An interesting campaign to watch in addition to the presidential one is the fight between two Irishmen for the Senate seat in New York state - Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Democrat contender and the Republican incumbent Senator James L. Buckley. Will it be the Harvard crimson against the Boola Blue Yale? Will it be Pat's wit and intellect against the sober brains of James, aided by a few columnistic stabs from brother Bill? Will it be the rags to riches Pat against the lace curtain Irish, James? Who knows? It will be worth the price of the New York Times to follow the battle. Representative Bella Abzug, defeated in the primaries by Pat, promises to throw one of her many hats in the ring for Pat. If he wins there will be new excitement in the Senate when the Old Guard hears his sharp tongue and impressive language.

The freedom of the press is again in the news. The latest is the case of television reporter Daniel Schorr refusing to give the source of the information which he gave to the Village Voice concerning a secret House Committee report. After a House investigation it was decided that Schorr would not be held in contempt. The force of argument was that protection of a reporter's source is absolutely essential to the function of the press in this country. Hence the public will be spared another First Amendment case.

Not many tourists who come to Washington know that there is a special hideout in the Smithsonian red castle for government officials to think and work if they want to concentrate on writing a speech or book or just sit and think. The think tank is the Woodrow Wilson Center housed in the Smithsonian and is often called "an intellectual fountain, a spring of knowledge from whench we can drink," a phrase credited to Senator Hubert Humphrey, who often worked there and sought inspiration from his mentor, Woodrow Wilson. Secretary Richardson also found the Center a useful retreat while writing his book after the Saturday Night Massacre. General Andrew J. Goodpaster, four-star General, a Princeton Ph.D. and a West Point graduate, is studying the role of the U.S. military in detente and is using the Center for his material. The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars was established in 1968 as a memorial to the 28th President. It receives an annual budget through appropriations and contributions and is used for academic Wilson fellowships. James H. Billington, the present Director, is an historian who taught at Harvard and Princeton, having attained his education on scholarships including a Rhodes to Oxford.

The Korean evangelist Reverend Moon recently held a spectacular meeting attended by 50,000 persons at the Washington Monument. Persons came out of reverence and curiosity and in search of their "lost children." The fireworks at the end of his service far outclassed the traditional 4th of July celebrations as the Roman candles and celestial stars soared far above the historic pencil.

Downhill screamer

An expression of fright is captured in this photo as a woman riding a roller coaster at the Western Washington State Fair lets go with a mighty scream. It no doubt was brought about by the sensation of the heart jumping to the throat, which normally accompanies the plunge down the track.

Caterpillar predicts an easy winter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Put away your long johns. The wooly bear caterpillar report is out and it's the "year of the blonde" for the furry little creatures, indicating a mild winter.

Herbert Krone, 82, who claims the color of the wooly bear forecasts winter weather, says this year's crop is the lightest he's seen in more than a half century.

"This is the year of the blonde," Krone said Friday in a telephone interview from his home in Lancaster. "It's the first time I've ever seen real platinum blonde wooly bears. It must indicate we're in for a real mild winter."

"Wooly bears are generally light at the front end, dark in the middle and light at the rear end," Krone said. "That means we're in for an average winter, warm in the fall, turning cold by winter, then going back warm again in the spring."

The wooly bears appear in late September or early October.

No plans made to fire aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye says he has no plans to fire his administrative assistant who admittedly committed perjury while testifying before a federal grand jury.

Inouye, a Democrat from Hawaii, also denied a report that the Senate Ethics Committee is pressuring him to fire the aide, Henry Giugni.

Giugni told a federal court last July that he had accepted a $5,000 cash campaign contribution in 1973 from Gulf Oil Corp. lobbyist Claude C. Wild Jr, and failed to report it as required by federal law.

Giugni also said he committed perjury when first asked about the contribution by a federal grand jury.

Published reports said the Ethics Committee has urged Inouye to dimiss Giugni because the aide's actions allegedly brought discredit to the Senate.

Inouye said he requested a meeting with the committee to discuss the situation. The senator recalled members' questions and statements as being largely sympathetic.

And, Inouye said, "The committee did not individually or collectively suggest that I fire Mr. Giugni." He added that he had no intention of firing his aide.

Giugni said he used the contribution money to reimburse Inouye for out-of-pocket campaign expenses without telling the senator where the money came from.

Giugni was not prosecuted because he received immunity after his first appearance before the grand jury. He has since sent Gulf a personal check, paying back the $5,000.

The committee last week decided to drop an inquiry into the receipt of Gulf funds by Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott.

Forgetting names

A poster with an elephant
That in a corner set
Said: "The trouble with a memory
"There are things you'd like to forget."
"I don't know" commented a woman
"It's a better memory I need
"I'd like to remember names"
To which we all agreed.
"Now I can remember faces"
People now and then will say
But with me both names and faces
Just don't seem to stay.
Often when people stop to talk
I never do admit
That I don't know who they are
But sometimes wonder a bit,
Are they friends of an early era
I don't recognize anymore,
Lived across from me they sometimes say
Or, even now and then, next door
Maybe I knew them in school,
In my teens and I hate
To sometimes be reminded
'Twas someone I used to date,
Mostly they don't say who they are
And we talk on and on,
Sometimes I wonder, sometimes not
Who they are when they are gone.
It doesn't bother me too much
I'm always glad to see
Anybody, anywhere
Who stops to talk with me,
I know I've known them somewhere
Sometime along the line
And if I haven't I don't care
I still think it is fine,
For I simply like people,
I always like to chatter
And who it is I'm talking to
Now really doesn't matter.
Some people are embarrassed
But I am not at all
Since I was young there were people
Whose names I couldn't recall
"You remember me" folks sometimes say
And quickly I agree.
Now God remembers them all, I hope,
But that is God, not me,
Yet I am certain he forgives me
For the little white lies I tell
When I pretend to know someone
With whom I stop to talk a spell
You can always say: 'How's the family?'
"Everyone has a family, you know,"
I heard a man say one time
But really that isn't so
Lots of people don't have a family
Yet the trouble with all is the same
It grows worse as we grow older
We too often don't remember a name

Saturday ceremonies unite couples

King-Salisbury

Miss Debra Lee King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don L. King, 1213 West Fourth, became the bride of David Salisbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Salisbury, Maysville, Mo., in a 7:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony at the First Christian Church.

The Rev. Robert Magee performed the double ring candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of bronze and yellow mums and red rover mums in marble pedestal urns flanked by 20 branch candelabra. Miss Nancy Preuitt, organist, accompanied Miss Giana Snyder as she sang the wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride chose a gown of knit jersey fashioned with an open neckline and empire waistline banded in silk floss Venise lace. The maid of honor, Miss Randa Grey, wore a knit gown in spice color. It was fashioned with a V-neckline, empire bodice and halter effect. Over the gown she wore a cape with rolled collar and tie back. The cape came to the empire in front and flared longer in the back. ## Ash-Cordes

United in marriage 2 p.m. Sept. 19 were the former Teresa Kay Ash and David Wayne Cordes.

The Rev. James Kane performed the double ring ceremony at Maplewood Church for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Whapham, Route 6, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay B. Cordes, 1935 East Seventh. Connie Schondelmeyer, sister of the groom, was the pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white jersey styled with a Queen Anne neckline giving way to the fitted bodice accented by Venise lace flowers. Her bishop sleeves were cuffed at the wrist with lace and the empire waistline, encircled by lace, fell softly to the full draping skirt and chapel-length train enhanced by streamers of lace flowers. Delicately framing her face was a bridal cap of lace flowers and seed pearls which secured a two-tier lace edged fingertip illusion.

Miss Libby E. Sydow was the maid of honor. She wore a blue jersey full-length gown styled with a V-neckline and empire waist.

Robert McFarland attended the groom as best man. John Niederwimmer and Roland Templeton seated the guests.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the bride chose a baby blue blouse with matching striped skirt for traveling on a honeymoon to Tan-Tar-A.

What effect from 'teacher power'?

Under a banner proclaiming that "Teacher Power Is Now," the Reporter, a publication of the National Education Association (NEA), notes that summer 1976 marked a turning point for America's teachers — "the time when teacher power matured into political power."

Consider these signs of maturity:

—At their annual meeting in Miami Beach in June, nearly 8,000 teacher delegates paved the way for the association's first endorsement of a U.S. presidential candidate.

—In July, 172 teacher delegates and 93 alternates joined with other representatives of labor to become a "major force" at the Democratic National Convention in New York City. The NEA subsequently endorsed Jimmy Carter.

—In August, another group of teacher delegates and alternates, 50 strong, traveled to Kansas City to add their views to the decision making at the Republican National Convention.

Teachers have come to recognize, says the association's president John Ryor, "that we are a formidable force in the life of this nation." Through participation in the political arena, "we will have the means and the will and the way to finally begin to achieve quality education in America."

Now certainly, quality education is something everybody wants in America, even if everyone may not agree with the National Education Association that more and more federal involvement is the way to get it, or may wonder what the association's support of the right of public workers to strike or ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment have to do with it.

But there may also be some people, and one hopes the majority of teachers are included among them, who cling to the old-fashioned belief that real teacher power is what it has always been — the power to mold and inspire young people, to instill in them the desire for knowledge and self- improvement and service to their fellows that will influence them throughout their lives.

Teachers have the right to organize, to bargain, to endorse issues and candidates and to vote and otherwise participate in the political arena just like any other citizens. But it would be an immense pity if, in its new-found political power, the National Education Association transformed itself into just another muscle group telling itself that what is good for it is necessarily and always what is good for everybody else. # Non-kosher scheme by Col. Sanders

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Kentucky Fried Chicken, which peddles Colonel Sanders' delectables around the world, would like to have its chicken and eat it, too.

The corporate bosses, according to their confidential papers, would like to open a franchise in Israel. But if they should raise the colonel's goateed visage in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, they might be boycotted by the Arab nations and thus lose a lot of bucks.

So they have been considering a scheme that would permit them to sell finger-lickin'-good chicken to the Israelis without offending the Arabs. The plan, as outlined in confidential corporate memos, calls for setting up an Israeli franchise, pretending it is illegal and laundering the proceeds, possibly through South Africa.

Kentucky Fried Chicken is now owned by the Heublein Corp., a billion-dollar firm that otherwise dispenses beer, wine and liquors. One of its executives, G.A. McNamara, is convinced that Colonel Sanders' Kentucky fries would be gobbled up in Israel.

"We must be in Israel," he declared in a July 28 memo. But this could leave the Heublein Corp. with a lot of uneaten chicken on its hands from Cairo to Kuwait. He concluded, therefore, that "we cannot be there legally."

But there is more than one way to pluck a chicken. He had located a man who was "interested in becoming a pirate franchisee," confided McNamara, "with some sort of remuneration to us via South Africa or elsewhere. He understands that we could not condone nor service his operation and, in fact, for cosmetic reasons might ... have to bring litigation against him in Israel for usurping our mark.

But while the company engaged in this legal charade, it would quietly collect its regular royalties under the table. The proposal has not been implemented, a Heublein spokesman told us.

The hope of selling fried chicken to both the Arabs and Israelis has occupied the Heublein hierarchy for some time. McNamara assessed the Middle East market in a July 16, 1973, memo stamped "personal and confidential." Deals were cooking, he reported, in Iran, Kuwait and Lebanon, perhaps also Egypt and the Arabian Gulf countries. "In Jordan," he added, "we have just signed with a cousin of King Hussein, Prince Ali, for a one-store option, and ... the market looks like it could easily hold 10 to 15 units." McNamara noted that Kentucky Fried Chicken had received a number of requests for franchises in Israel.

It could mean trouble with "U.S. and U.K. (United Kingdom) Jewish organizations," he warned, if Colonel Sanders invaded Israel and then retreated at the first Arab outcry. The company might even face "a very serious boycott on our beverage and food activities in major markets throughout the world," he cautioned. Therefore, he concluded: "I feel that we should continue with our Arab world development and for cosmetic reasons continue periodically to discuss with interested parties in Israel so as to keep the file active. However, I seriously doubt whether we should ever, at least as Heublein, take a franchise position in Israel."

This recommendation, according to a memo two years later, was adopted. "When we began to develop the Mideast," he wrote, "we made an executive decision with (Heublein President) Hick Waldron's blessings that we would continue to investigate Israel but not to franchise it. If we franchised Israel, we would run the risk of being banned from the Arab markets."

The Israelis, meanwhile, are still waiting for their first taste of Colonel Sanders' finger-lickin'-good product.

Question of helmets

I would like to refer to (a) UPI picture recently appearing in The Sedalia Democrat headlined with the caption, "Helmet helped." If that's good journalism, you've got a poor newspaper. I certainly believe in a free press, and hopefully a good and truthful one.

What's news about the fact that in case of an accident, a helmet can be helpful (or detrimental for that matter)? I have never heard it said, or even thought of, with all the action motorcyclists have taken, that it couldn't be helpful.

What is news, is that throughout the United States they have not stopped in their efforts to have something done about this unconstitutional law. What is news is that the people at the federal level have repealed this requirement. What is news, as I have it, is that Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Illinois, Louisiana, and Arizona have repealed the law. What is news is that in Australia research has shown that the wearing of helmets, can contribute to the cause of accidents, as well as be helpful (or detrimental) after an accident.

Wouldn't it have been better to have had a local picture of the hundreds of people that recently went to our Capitol in Missouri to try to seek removal of this law? The motorcyclist is already under serious prejudicial judgment without showing pictures and headlines like that. I don't believe it helps, and I hope you have enough interest in good journalism that you will print this viewpoint.

Jimmy Carter is no 'friend' of business

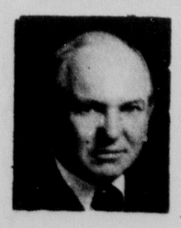
By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter sat down the other day with two business reporters, Philip Greer and Myron Kandel, and gave them a little Southern sweet-talk. American businessmen, said the Democratic nominee, would have nothing to fear from a Carter administration. Businessmen, indeed, would have "a friend in the White House."



Kilpatrick

Greer and Kandel reported this cane syrup stuff deadpan, which is what good reporters ought to do, but it will take more than sorghum rhetoric to reassure those who have followed the Carter record. The prospect of a Carter administration should give most businessmen — and most working people as well — a serious case of the heebie- jeebies.

That Carter is the candidate of organized labor, no one should doubt. Four years ago George Meany sulked out of the McGovern campaign, this time the AFL-CIO's president is up and moving. Carter has the endorsement of the National Education Association, the largest of the teacher unions, and will have help from other public unions as well. For such support, a quid pro quo will most certainly be asked. Carter has promised to deliver.

Meany wants two bills enacted into law, and he wants them right away. One would repeal Section 14(b) of Hartley, thus nullifying the right-to-work laws of 19 states. The other would authorize common site picketing, and thus overturn the Supreme Court's 1951 ruling that secondary boycotts constitute an unfair labor practice.

Neither of the bills presents a legislative problem. A single sentence would suffice for 14(b). It would take but a moment to dust off the common site bill that Congress passed last December and President Ford vetoed in January. Carter is absolutely committed to signing both of them. The consequences for non-union workers, who comprise 75 to 78 per cent of the labor force, are plain for anyone to see. The impact on the construction industry requires no elaboration. If Carter may be counted on these two bills alone as a "friend in the White House," we may well inquire: Who needs enemies?

We may glean some further indications of Carter's attitudes from his letter to the Democratic Platform Committee. The letter was dated June 16, 1976, barely three months ago. Surely Carter has not abandoned the considered recommendations he made so recently.

"The first priority," he said, "must be a rapid reduction of unemployment." Toward that end, "we must assure support for the Full Employment Act of 1976." This is the famous Humphrey-Hawkins proposal for the virtual regimentation of American business and industry.3

In this same letter, Carter called for "strict antitrust and consumer protection enforcement." He called for standby wage and price controls. He called for changes in the Federal Reserve Act that would make the chairman of the Fed the president's political stooge. He said he would oppose efforts to deregulate the price of old oil. He supported some form of divestiture for petroleum companies. He promised to "hold fast against efforts to lower clean air requirements," and he supported "strict enforcement of the non-degradation clause of the Clean Air Act." He said he would oppose efforts to weaken the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. He advocated greater protection against noise pollution.

"Major reforms are necessary," said Carter, "to protect the consumers of this country. First, we must institutionalize the consumer's role through the creation of a Consumer Protection Agency. Second, we should establish a strong nationwide program of consumer education, to give the consumer the knowledge to protect himself in the marketplace. Third, we should make class actions by consumers more easily available."

Carter went on to endorse full product labeling, strict truth-in-advertising laws, greater protection against dangerous products, enforcement of stringent flammability standards for clothing, and so on, and so on. And when Ralph Nader made his pilgrimage to Plains, Carter sealed his promises with a kiss.

Sure, the candidate has made some murmuring noises about free enterprise, reduced red tape, production incentives, and all the rest. But to judge from his own written words, Carter is no friend to business or to the non-union worker. Such voters ought to remember in November what the gentleman said in June.

Divorce and the tax man

WASHINGTON — The couple came in to the marriage counselor's office and sat down nervously.

"What seems to be the problem?" the counselor asked.

Buchwald

"We want a divorce," the woman said and then started crying.

"It's the only way out," sobbed the man.

"Now wait a minute. There must be some other solution," the counselor said. "Do you love each other?"

"Very much," the woman said.

"More than you'll ever know," the man said.

"Then what's the problem?"

"It's our taxes," the man said. "As a married couple we have to pay $3,000 more to the IRS than if we were single. We need the money so we thought we'd get a divorce."

The marriage counselor said, "It's not that simple. According to IRS regulations, just getting a divorce will not be accepted unless you show a true intent to dissolve the marriage. Now if you were to remarry again after the tax period was over, the Internal Revenue Service would consider this a form of tax evasion, and you would have to suffer the penalties."

The woman started crying again.

"Let's see if we can find some legitimate reasons for a divorce. Is there another man or woman in the picture?"

"No," said the husband. "I've never cheated on my wife."

"I've never cheated on my husband," the wife said.

"The IRS won't like that. I assume you're compatible in bed," the marriage counselor said.

"Very." For the first time, both of them smiled.

"Has he ever struck you or beat you?" the counselor asked the wife.

"Never. Whenever we have a fight he sends me roses."

"I wouldn't mention that to the tax people."

"What about serious disagreements over money?"

"The only ones we've had," the husband said, "have been over the taxes we've had to pay. You see, there is a tax table for married people who file separate returns, and single people who file separate returns. If you live with somebody and you're not married you get a tax break. We don't think that's fair. What we were hoping to do is get the divorce and then keep living together as if nothing happened."

"That's out of the question," the counselor said. "It would prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that your only reason for getting a divorce was to cheat the government of its rightful revenues. One or the other of you has to move out of the house."

"Suppose after the divorce," asked the husband, "she lives upstairs and I live in the basement and we lock the door?"

"I'd have to get a ruling on that," the counselor replied. "But I doubt if it would work. If you want tax benefits you're going to have to put up with the pain and anguish that goes with a divorce. Otherwise you're going to have to stay married and pay the piper."

"How long would we have to stay divorced," the wife asked, "to meet the IRS requirements?"

"I'm just guessing, but it would have to be a full tax year at least. You can't keep getting married and divorced every 12 months just to save tax money. It would be awfully rough on the children."

"Then what do you suggest?"

"I think you both need couple therapy. If you're determined to do this, you're going to have to do it as painlessly as possible."

"Will you take us on as patients?"

"I can't," the counselor said. "It's not up my line. I'm going to send you to someone who specializes in this kind of case."

"Who is that?" the husband asked.

"H & R Block."

Survey's results announced

LaMONTE — A majority of persons responding to a questionnaire mailed recently to all local citizens over age 55 preferred locating a planned new 16-unit senior citizens housing complex near the site of the proposed Golden Rule Nursing Home.

A total of 108 responses, many of which were signed by more than one person, were received. Of these, 89 persons indicated they preferred a site near that of the proposed nursing home. A total of 32 persons stated they preferred locating the complex near the railroad tracks in the Bohnenkamp addition. Several other possible locations received scattered small votes of preferrence.

The planned $180,000 senior citizens housing complex will consist of four buildings with a total of 16 units. It will be 98 per cent federally funded, it was reported.

A total of 160 questionnaires were mailed out. Although most of them were sent to persons over age 55, some were also addressed to farmers, business persons, ministers and city councilmen to get the view of younger members of the community.

Opening lead — K ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North knew his partner well enough to be sure that he would not open four hearts with a suit headed by just ace-king unless he held eight of them. Hence, after South showed two kings in response to the Blackwood five notrump, North could count 12 top tricks. He bid seven on the theory that when there are 12 top tricks there is always a good play for the 13th.

South held the right king so everything looked rosy. He discarded his deuce of diamonds on the ace of clubs, played a couple of rounds of trumps and planked down his king of diamonds. He intended to claim if both opponents followed since he could handle any 4-1 or 3-2 diamond break, but West showed out. All of a sudden the cinch grand slam seemed doomed to failure.

South saw one extra chance. He led a spade to dummy's ace and ran off all his trumps to come down to a two-card ending. He held the four of diamonds and 10 of spades, dummy the ace-jack of diamonds and poor East a fist full of worms. He had started with the king-queen and jack of spades and was forced to discard the last one of them to keep the guard for his queen of diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's hand was sent to us by a Delaware reader with the question: "Was I lucky?"

The answer is that he was lucky to find East with all three spade honors, but really unlucky to find the diamonds bunched. Also, he played the hand very nicely and deserves a lot of credit for that.

VD answer a great service

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder if you realize what a wonderful service you perform when you urge people to get themselves tested for VD. Here's my story.

I'm a faithful reader. I believe in you. Several weeks ago you said, "If you suspect you have VD and are ashamed to go to a doctor, go to the city or county Health Department, or to the emergency room of the nearest hospital." You were talking to me.

I'm a married woman with children. My husband travels and I became involved with a man who works at the plant. Two days after I had sex with him I was sure he had given me VD.

I phoned the Chicago Board of Health for an appointment like you suggested. A nice woman answered all my questions. She must have thought I was the dumbest thing alive, but she was polite and helpful. I was told to come in for a test. She assured me everything would be strictly confidential and it wouldn't cost anything.

When I arrived at the Board of Health, I was surprised to see so many others. I "signed in" and answered all the questions truthfully, except the one that asked "Single or Married?" I put down "Single." I was given a number and told to wait until mine was called. In 15 minutes I was led to a small (immaculate) examining room. The doctor was a woman.

The examination was painless and it only took 12 minutes. Then a technician came in and took blood from my arm and a culture from my body. They labeled both with numbers, not my name. The polite doctor said, "We will phone you in three days with the results."

I wasn't treated like I had leprosy or, worse yet, like a tramp. Everyone was so considerate and respectful I couldn't believe it. In three days I received the phone call. My tests were negative -- no VD, but I had a yeast infection. The person on the phone told me what to do about it. I was never so relieved in all my life.

Please print my letter so others will not be afraid to go get tested if they get in a similar jam. I am — Blessing You

Dear Blessing: Thanks for letting me know. And now an added word to my readers. Remember: Most city Boards of Health charge nothing for VD tests AND treatment. Hospitals do charge, but they usually recommend the free services. Anyone who thinks he may have VD should go at once. No questions asked, minors included. Parents will NOT be notified under any circumstances.

Dear Ann: We have six children, five boys and one girl. The girl is 13 and her dad kisses her "hello" and "goodbye" when she goes from one room to the next. He wants her on his lap while they watch TV. He must kiss her before she goes to bed — any excuse will do.

Last night we had friends in for bridge. Evy came in and the first thing he said was, "Come give your dad a kiss." I was embarrassed.

Our two younger sons are hellions. He ignores them. I've suggested he pay more attention to the boys and less to the girl but it does no good. Any advice? — Disturbed Mama.

Dear Mama: Yes — lots. Your husband's partiality to Evy is bad for her and worse for her brothers. Ask your family doctor to talk to him like a Dutch uncle. There's trouble ahead unless he gets some insight into what he is doing to his children. Also suggest that Evy discuss this with her school counselor. She needs to be informed on how to deal with Daddy.

Mizzou shocks Ohio St. with 22-21 win

Instant hero

Missouri quarterback Pete Woods eludes Ohio State tackle Nick Buonamici to gain eight yards during the fourth quarter drive leading to a Tiger touchdown. Woods ran for the two-point conversion following the TD, as Mizzou upset the Buckeyes 22-21. Woods was slated to be redshirted this year, but was pressed into service when starter Steve Pisarkiewicz was hurt.

(UPI)

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Moments after the upset of the 1976 college season, a 22-21 stunner of No. 2 Ohio State Saturday, Al Onofrio said, "This was the greatest football game a Missouri team ever has played."

The Missouri coach said there was no dilemma about going for the vital two points, an option run by quarterback Pete Woods, a junior making his first varsity start.

"Never, not once," said Onofrio, "did we ever think about not going for two points. Anytime there is less than four minutes you have to go for it."

Wood scored the tying and winning points with 12 seconds left, handing the Buckeyes their first home loss since 1971. Northwestern last won in Ohio Stadium 14-10.

Woods failed on his first extra points try, an overthrown pass to tailback Curt Brown. An Ohio State holding penalty gave him a second try.

"I was quite relieved when I was given a second chance for the extra points. I just saw daylight and got hit before I got to the goal. I was lucky enough to get in," said Woods.

A subdued Woody Hayes, whose Ohio State team was favored by two to three touchdowns, said "they wanted to win it a little more than we did. They deserve to win."

Hayes said he did not know which player was guilty of the costly penalty in the final seconds. "But it was defensive holding," he said.

Woods, facing a third-andgoal at the two, lofted a perfect lead pass to Leo Lewis in the corner of the end zone for the third touchdown with 10 seconds to play.

Missouri's dramatic rally overshadowed a three-touchdown performance by Pete Johnson, Ohio State's 239-pound fullback. Johnson's touchdowns all came from two yards.

Woods, a 6-foot-4, 210-pounder, had been involved in just 10 plays in Missouri's 1-1 start before the upset of the early 1976 season.

Woods passed 31 yards to Joe Stewart to pull Missouri even 7-7 early in the second quarter. He led the Tigers on a 47-yard drive early in the third period, a march that was climaxed by Brown's four-yard scoring run. The drive was set up when linebacker Chris Garlich intercepted a Rod Gerald pass.

Woods either passed or ran eight of Missouri's 15 plays in its third touchdown drive as Ohio Stadium's third largest crowd of 87,936 sat stunned.

Missouri's Pete Woods finds instant stardom

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eight days earlier, Pete Woods was to become a redshirt, destined for a full season of idleness to give him an extra year of college football eligibility.

Now the quarterback was a national sports hero, surrounded by newsmen Saturday after engineering Missouri's 22-21 upset of second-ranked Ohio State.

"There was real consideration of red-shirting Woods until last week. In fact, that's why he did not play against Southern Cal," said Al Onofrio.

An injury to passing whiz Steve Pisarkiewicz during a 31-6 loss to Illinois last week changed that. Woods was pressed into service.

Shortly after passing for two touchdowns and running in the winning two-point conversion, Woods sat in front of his locker, wearing a "Go Tigers" yellow visor.

"I was not nervous," he said of his 156-yard performance. "I've been sitting around waiting for my chance. The only thing I was hoping was that I wouldn't blow it. I'm really proud."

Kansas St. shutout for only Big 8 loss

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Wake Forest swept 32 yards to a late touchdown after recovering a fumble Saturday, clinching a 13-0 victory over Kansas State's punchless Wildcats.

The touchdown, coming with just over three minutes to play, settled a defensive duel in which the victorious Deacons had been able to convert only two second-quarter field goals.

The toothless Kansas State offense managed just one serious threat. The Wildcats, now 1-2, drove 59 yards in a race with the clock just before halftime. But Bill Sinovic missed a 41-yard attempt at a field goal.

Oklahoma 24
Florida St. 9

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Halfback Horace Ivory blazed for two long-range touchdowns and safety Zack Henderson came up with a couple of crucial defensive plays Saturday as fourth-ranked Oklahoma huffed and puffed to a 24-9 victory over inspired Florida State.

The Seminoles, embarrassed a week ago by Miami, Fla., 47-0, played nearly flawless football to post a surprising 6-3 lead in the first quarter on Larry Key's five-yard run.

But the Sooners' superior speed took its toll in the second stanza as Ivory, a 198-pound speedster from Fort Worth, Tex., zipped into the end zone on 37-and 23-yard runs after taking pitchouts from quarterback Dean Blevins.

Iowa St. 47
Kent St. 7

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State quarterback Wayne Stanley, the Big Eight Conference's total offense leader, ran for one touchdown and passed for two more to lead the undefeated Cyclones to a 47-7 football victory over Kent State Saturday.

Colorado 33
Miami 3

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Senior quarterback Jeff Austin ran for one touchdown and tossed an 81-yard pass for another, and the Colorado defense contributed a touchdown and a safety, as the Buffaloes whipped Miami of Florida 33-3 Saturday in college football.

Shrugging off a knee injury that had kept him out of practice most of the week, Austin unloaded his 81-yard bomb to wingback Emery Moorehead early in the second quarter to put the Buffaloes on top 10-0.

Nebraska 64
TCU 10

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Quarterback Vince Ferragamo tossed four touchdown passes, matching a school record, and led No. 6 Nebraska to a 64-10 football victory over Texas Christian University in a steady rain Saturday.

Oilers count on defense to stop Raider attack

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Any football coach who is worth his whistle will tell you that it's fine to have a big play offense, but games are won and lost when the defensive unit is on the field.

And you'll certainly get no argument about that axiom from Bum Phillips, coach of the Houston Oilers.

Phillips' Oilers have won their first two games this National Football League season. And one reason is that the defense has given up only three points. Houston shut out the expansion Tampa Bay Bucaneers in their opener and then held Buffalo to a solitary field goal in beating the Bills last Sunday. This week, the task turns tougher with the Oakland Raiders meeting the Oilers at Houston.

In Sunday's other games, Buffalo plays at Tampa Bay, Cleveland is at Denver, New England visits Pittsburgh, Miami hosts the New York Jets, Oakland plays at Houston, Atlanta goes to Chicago, Minnesota visits Detroit, the New York Giants are at Los Angeles, San Francisco plays at Seattle, Dallas is host to Baltimore, Green Bay is at Cincinnati, New Orleans plays at Kansas City and St. Louis goes against the Chargers in San Diego.

In Monday night's game, Washington plays at Philadelphia.

Oakland, 2-0, has scored seven touchdowns and gaining 886 total yards. Quarterback Ken Stabler twisted his knee in last Monday night's game at Kansas City but is listed as a probable starter Sunday. He will have to deal with a Houston defense that has sacked opposing quarterbacks eight times in two games.

Two other NFL games Sunday match non-losers. Baltimore goes for No.3 this year and a club-record 12th straight regular season victory at Dallas, which also has won two straight, while San Diego and St. Louis, both 2-0, also tangle.

Chicago has won two straight and hopes to continue against winless Atlanta. The Bears, who will be playing their 1,000th game since moving to Chcago from Decatur, Ill., in 1921, lost linebacker Doug Buffone for the season with Achilles tendon surgery but hope to have quarterback Bob Avellini fully recovered from his sprained knee to face the Falcons.

Los Angeles expects to stay with third-string quarterback Pat Haden against the Giants, 0-2, while regular James Harris and backup Ron Jaworski recover from injuries. Haden went the distance in last week's 10-10 tie at Minnesota.

Minnesota defensive end Jim Marshall will play in his 225th consecutive NFL game, breaking the mark he now shares with retired kicker George Blanda, when the Vikings face Detroit. The Lions saved Coach Rick Forzano's job, at least temporarily, last week when they rallied to beat Atlanta.

S-C ends losing streak

Tigers hang on for 19-12 victory

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sportswriter

The Smith-Cotton Tiger football team finally got on the winning track with a 19-12 victory over the St. Joseph Lafayette Fighting Irish Friday night in Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

The win for Sedalia was the first this year which broke a 4-game losing skid dating back to the final game last year when Columbia Hickman routed the Tigers 41-20.

"I thought we played spotty, but I'm very pleased to win a ballgame," said a very proud Tiger head man, Bob Fletcher. With a 13-0 advantage at the half, Coach Fletcher said the attitude in the dressing room was good. "They felt like they were gonna go out and win," he said.

Turnovers set up two touchdowns for the Tigers while a turnover of their own set up a TD for the Irish.

The first Tiger score came with 3:28 remaining in the first quarter, when a fumble by Lafayette's Mark Benitz set the TD up after fielding a punt in his own territory. An alert Jack Hawkins recovered the ball for Sedalia on the Irish 39-yard line.

In nine plays, the Tigers drew first blood when fullback Keith Fletcher burst for a 1-yard run for the score. The extra point after the TD was no good and the Tigers held a 6-0 edge heading into the second period.

After holding the Irish on a fourth and 6 play from their own 9-yard line, the Tigers moved up to their 30, but a long pass attempt by quarterback Kirk Fletcher fell into the wrong hands — those belonging to Lafayette's defensive back Terry Landess. On offense, Landess plays quarterback.

On the very next play, Fletcher returned the favor and picked off a Landess pass at the Tiger 5-yard line.

The Tigers moved steadily downfield in 11 plays and a sensational catch by David Hathaway in the end zone got Smith-Cotton on the board again with just 1 second showing on the clock before the half.

With a second and 3 from the 3-yard line, Fletcher threw into the end zone and Landess, trying to make another interception, tipped the ball into Hathaway's alert hands. Keith Fletcher added the PAT and the Tigers carried a 13-0 lead into the second half.

"It was fabulous," praised Coach Fletcher on Hathaway's catch. "It showed that he was alert and hustling."

Sedalia received the opening kick in the second half, but on the very first play from scrimmage, Eddie Kitchen fumbled on a bad exchange from Kirk Fletcher on a handoff and tackle Matt Meinert recovered the ball for St. Joseph on Sedalia's own 29-yard line.

In just seven running plays from scrimmage, the Irish carried the ball down to the Tiger 1-yard line before Landess scored on a quarterback keeper with 8:10 remaining in the third period. Trying to play catch-up, Lafayette attempted the 2-point conversion, but Landess's pass attempt fell incomplete and the score remained 13-6.

Hathaway stifled a Lafayette drive with an interception at the 12-yard line of Sedalia with 3:00 on the clock in the third period. The Irish started the drive on their own 16-yard line and were gaining ground rapidly when Hathaway picked off the Landess pass on a second and 8 play from the 27.

The Tigers failed to get further than their 31-yard line and were forced to punt on the first play of the fourth and final quarter.

The Irish, still fighting, struck back and scored on a drive that started on Sedalia's 41-yard line. Fullback Charlie Riggs scored the TD from three yards out on the eighth running play of the scoring drive. The big ground gainer in the drive was a 16-yard scamper by Riggs from the 30 down to the 14-yard line.

The Riggs touchdown made the score 13-12 with the Irish yet to attempt the PAT. Their only choice was to again attempt a two-point conversion. Dave Benitz tried to go through left tackle, but fine defensive plays were turned in by Chris Goss, Frank Norphy, and Keith Fletcher and they stopped Benitz before he could get his wheels turning.

The play fired up the Tigers, and after receiving the kickoff, they set out on a 59-yard scoring drive.

Smith-Cotton moved slowly but surely downfield and were helped along on a personal foul penalty assessed against the Irish. Quarterback Kirk Fletcher wiggled through left tackle for the final two yards and the last TD of the game with 4:05 remaining in the game. The score gave the Tigers a seven point, 19-12, lead. Smith-Cotton, knowing that a Lafayette TD and a two-point conversion would give the Irish the lead, themselves attempted a two-pointer, but Fletcher's pass to Brian Buckner fell incomplete at the goal line.

With plenty of time remaining, the Irish took the kick up to their 36-yard line. In three plays, the Irish were in Sedalia territory. St. Joseph could get no further than the Sedalia 32 after Dave Benitz was stopped for no gain on a third and 2 by Sam Hargrave and Dennis Muncy. On the following play, Benitz tried the same play and was met head-on by Hargrave and Chris Goss. Those defensive plays saved the game for the Tigers.

Coach Fletcher noted that his defense played very well saying that Frank Norphy played a good ballgame. "Allen Giokaris played defensive end pretty good, too," he said.

On the other side of the wall, a very disappointed Lafayette coach, Scott Marriott, wondered what had come over his squad. "I feel like if we played inspired football in the first half, we could have gone home a winner," he said expressionless.

Marriott said he was proud of the way the Irish played in the second half, but was disappointed in the Lafayette first half showing. "We feel like we could have won the football game," he said. "I'm not taking anything away from Sedalia — they played tough. Anyone who can move the football like Sedalia did is TOUGH," said Marriott coldfaced. "I feel like we were defeated by a very sound football team," he concluded.

Lafayette outrushed the Tigers 210 to 181 yards, but the Tigers outpassed the Irish 57 yards to 26.

The first downs were even at 15 apiece, and each team was penalized one time.

The Fighting Irish boasted the game's rushing leaders in Dave Benitz (89 yards on 23 carries) and Charlie Riggs (80 yards on 15 attempts). Brian Buckner led the Tigers in rushing with 78 yards on 16 carries. Friday night, the Tigers will travel to Jefferson City to meet the Jays at 8 p.m. for their first Central Missouri Conference bout.

On the next play Tiger quarterback Kirk Fletcher, (7) on the ground, threw a touchdown pass on a third-and-three to David Hathaway that gave Smith-Cotton a 13-0 lead going into the half. ## Stover beats Northwest 8-0

STOVER — Stover pushed its fall baseball record to 4-0 here Friday night with an 8-0 win over Northwest (Hughesville).

Mike Ringen, now 3-0, hurled a two-hitter and pushed his season's strikeout total to 25.

A seven-hit Bulldog attack in the first inning gave Stover a quick 6-0 lead. Stover tacked on a run in the second and one in the fourth to wrap up the game in five innings.

Included in the Stover hitting attack was a home run by Tom Dale.

Stover concluded its fall season with the victory.

Royals find runs hard to get

ARLINGTON (AP) — Texas right-hander Bert Blyleven fired a four-hitter, and the Rangers delayed Kansas City's march to the American League West title with a 1-0 victory Saturday night.

Blyleven was touched for two first-inning hits but blanked the Royals until yielding another pair of singles and getting out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth. Blyleven, 13-16, struck out 11 and walked two, oneintentionally.

Blyleven outdueled Kansas City left-hander Andy Hassler, 5-11. Hassler tossed a six-hitter but was touched for a run in the fourth on Tom Grieve's RBI single, and Blyleven made it stand up.

Blyleven retired 17 in a row before giving up a leadoff single in the ninth to Tom Poquette.

The Rangers gave Blyleven a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Hassler ran into control problems.

The tall left-hander walked Toby Harrah, but the Ranger shortstop was thrown out trying to steal second. Hassler put himself back on the hook by issuing free passes to Mike Hargrover and Jeff Burroughs.

Grieve's bouncing single through the middle scored Hargrove before Lenny Randle lined into an inning-ending double play.

Blyleven escaped trouble in the first inning and ninth innings.

In the first, the Royals' Al Cowens lined a one-out double to right center and, one out later, Hal McRea reached first on a infield single. Blyleven then walked John Mayberry to load the bases but fanned Amos Otis to squelch the threat.

Poquette led off the ninth with a single, and Willie Wilson came in to run. Blyleven struck out Cowen, but then the trouble started. George Brett singled up the middle and went to second when the throw from the outfield went over the cutoff man's head. Wilson held at third.

McRae then was walked intentionally before Blyleven got Mayberry to ground into a double play.

A's, White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Solo home runs by Ron Fairly and Gene Tenace and the relief pitching of Rollie Fingers lifted Oakland to a 7-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday night, keeping alive the A's slim pennant hopes.

Fingers, 12-11, hurled 41-3 innings, yielding three hits and holding Chicago scoreless to pick up the win. He struck out one and walked none.

The triumph, combined with Kansas City's 1-0 loss to the Texas Rangers, left the A's five games behind the Royals in the American League West with only seven games to play. Kansas City's magic number for clinching the division remained at three.

Fairly's second home run of the year, a solo shot into the right field seats, came off Rich Gossage, 9-16, with one out in the seventh and snapped a 4-4 tie. Tenace hit his 22nd homer of the year with two out in the eighth.

Yankees, Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Stanley and Willie Randolph each knocked in two runs in New York's six-run first-inning Saturday, and the Yankees went on to a 10-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory reduced New York's magic number to one in the race for the American League East title. The Yankees had to wait on the outcome of Baltimore's night game wth Boston to learn if they had earned their first championship in 12 years. A Baltimore defeat would give the title to the Yankees. Otherwise, the Yanks could win it themselves with a victory over the Tigers Sunday.

Doyle Alexander, 13-9, got credit for the victory with relief help from Dick Tidrow in the sixth. Rookie Ed Glynn, 0-3, took the loss.

Red Sox, Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boston's Luis Tiant recorded his 21st victory with a two-hitter to beat Baltimore 1-0 on a Dwight Evans home run Saturday night. The victory mathematically eliminated the Orioles from the pennant race in the American League East.

The loss by the Orioles, who had won five straight and have the best record in the league since the All-Star break, gave the division to the New York Yankees—who defeated Detroit 10-6 in an afternoon game.

Phillies, Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Jerry Martin's two-run single in the fifth inning gave Philadelphia a 6-5 victory over the Montreal Expos and clinched at least a tie for the Phillies for the National League's East Division title Saturday.

Either a Philadelphia victory Sunday or a Pittsburgh loss to St. Louis would give the Phils their first pennant since 1950.

Cards, Pirates

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lynn McGlothen pitched a four-hitter and the St. Louis Cardinals capitalized on their own speed and a shaky Pittsburgh defense for a 3-0 triumph over the faltering Pirates Saturday.

Otterville is 26-20 winner in softball

PRAIRIE HOME — In a barnburner of a softball game here Friday night, Otterville scored five runs in the seventh to tie the game, then scored six in the ninth to defeat Prairie Home 26-20.

In the girls' game, Prairie Home was a 18-8 winner.

The Otterville boys out-hit Prairie Home 21 to 14, and were led by Tommy Glenn who went 4-for-6 with a triple and two runs scored; Mitch Gant, 4-for-5, with five runs; Mark Otten, 3-for-6, with three runs and two doubles; and David Eckersle, who went 3-for-4 scoring two runs.

Greg Lenz led Prairie Home, going 3-for-6 with three doubles and scoring four runs.

Tim Smith was the winning pitcher, while Don Woods got the loss.

In the girls' game, Linda Berger was the winner and Lisa Price took the loss.

Otterville's boys record now stands at 3-1. Both the boys and girls teams will be at Pilot Grove Monday for a tournament there. The boys team is set to play Bunceton at 5:30 p.m.

Windsor gets 13-0 win over Concordia

WINDSOR — Howard Bullock rushed for 107 yards on 17 carries and led the Windsor Greyhounds to a 13-0 I-70 Conference win over Concordia here Friday night. It was Windsor's first win of the season against three losses.

A fumble recovery set up Windsor's first touchdown in the opening period. The Greyhounds scored their other TD in the third period.

Defensively, L.D. Lewis of Windsor intercepted three passes, turning back Concordia drives.

Gilbert leads in Kaiser Open

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Gibby Gilbert dropped six putts in the 10-to 12-foot range on the way to a 65, barged past erratic Johnny Miller and took a one-stroke lead after Saturday's third round of the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

"Now Johnny Miller has to catch me," Gilbert said after posting a 54-hole total of 205, 11 strokes under par on the 6,849yard north course at the Silverado Country Club.

Miller, who owns a home on this course, has won this title the last two years and led or shared the lead through the first two rounds. But he blew to a another par 72 Saturday in the mild, sunny weather that graced the California wine country.

That's nine strokes higher than the course-record 63 which Miller shot in Thursday's first round and sent him reeling back to fourth at 207, two strokes off the pace going into Sunday's final round of this chase for a $35,000 first prize.

Lee Trevino remained in title contention with a solid 69.

Teamsters local is bankrupt

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In debt $6.7 million with little prospect of escape, a major Teamsters Union local here filed for bankruptcy Friday.

"If effect, we're trying to salvage the local by seeking legal financial relief through the bankruptcy court," said Stephen H. Gilmore, attorney for Local 600.

The local, which represents 6,200 St. Louis and over-the-road truckers, was staggered in October 1974 by a $5.8 million court judgement stemming from a 1970 wildcat strike.

Gilmore, whose research indicated the bankruptcy petition a first for a U.S. union local, said a certified public accountant projected that the local would not be able to generate the cash to pay off its debts.

"Financially, we can't go any further—the books speak for themselves," Gilmore said. The petition stated that the local had assets of $85,999.

The union had been negotiating with the Motor Carriers Council of Greater St. Louis, Inc., which represents most of the 59 trucking firms awarded the $5.8 in damages, to reduce the judgement.

Union officials said they had hoped trade work rule concessions for a reduction, early last month the motor carriers unanimously rejected the idea.

In addition to the $5.8 million judgement, the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund—owner of Teamsters Council Plaza—is seeking to evict local 600 for non-payment of $10,000 rent.

The local owes a total of $145,000 dues to the Teamster International, Central Conference and Joint Council 13. Money is also owed union officers and employes.

Gilmore said bankruptcy would not affect the health and welfare or pension benefits of the union's members, since benefits were paid into funds that are separate from the local finances.

Abuse is suspected

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 5-year-old boy was pronounced dead Friday night at Children's Mercy Hospital, the victim of what police were investigating as a child abuse case.

Rodney Epperson, his body bruised and stripped of skin in places, was brought into the hospital by his mother and stepfather shortly before 6:30 p.m. but efforts to revive him were unsuccessful, officials said.

The boy's 2-year-old sister, Felicia Epperson, was also taken to the hospital with bruises and scars on her body, police said.

The children's mother, 22, and stepfather, 20, were being held by police for questioning late Friday, but the death had not yet been ruled a homicide. An autopsy was scheduled Saturday, according to Dr. Bonita Peterson, Jackson County medical examiner.

An examination of the boy's body showed that patches of skin had been ripped off in various areas and a large bruise covered his chest, officials said. Blood was soaked through his clothes when he was brought in and he appeared to be alive since tears ran from his open eyes.

But Dr. Charles Cockerell said the boy apparently died a short time before having been taken to the hospital's emergency room.

Police said his sister was taken from the family's three-room basement apartment. An examination showed that scar tissue had formed where the initials "CS" had been carved into her right forearm.

Other injuries, according to police, included a small area where the flesh was exposed and the skin was missing, marks on her fingers where pins may have been inserted, burn marks that may have been caused by cigarettes and marks on her chest where the skin had apparently been punctured.

Custody of the Felicia will temporarily be assumed by the Jackson County Juvenile Court, James Walsh.

What separated the Rabbit from the other cars that Road & Track considered.

0 to 50 in 8.2 sec.

"Peppy performance"

The Rabbit's incredible performance is even more incredible when you consider that it wasn't gained at the expense of mileage.

In the 1976 EPA tests the standard shift Rabbit got remarkable estimates of 39 mpg hwy, and 25 mpg city. (Your actual mileage may vary depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment and the condition of your car.) So if you want to get ahead in performance without falling behind in mileage, drive a Rabbit. It does as well in the long run as it does in the short hop.

"Best car in the world under $3500"

FOR LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN, NBA Commissioner

Did you learn anything from Watergate that helped you in your present job?—Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● As the victim of the original Watergate break-in, to this day I'm somewhat disbelieving that it occurred. Nevertheless, never again will I assume that what I took for granted prior to Watergate—all the contentions regarding individual liberty and the rights of citizens in a democracy– is valid. Only constant vigilance and hard work make them valid. Reflecting on this, I've recognized that my present role does not significantly differ from positions I previously held in government and politics. It is one of human relations. So I try to apply the same democratic principles inherent in our society to my daily relationships with associates and with the public.

FOR MICK JAGGER

Why do you keep touring? You have plenty of cash, so it can't be for the money.—J.M., Savannah, Ga.

● It's the way I choose to make a living, so it is for the money. I've got to keep it up. It's also for pleasure. I enjoy it. But I don't do it nonstop, the way I used to.

FOR DINA MERRILL

When did you first feel you had finally made it as a star?—E.S., Aberdeen, S.D.

● When my kids saw the movie I made with Jerry Lewis, "Don't Give Up the Ship." "Wow," they said. "A picture with Jerry Lewis!" That was when I felt I'd arrived.

FOR RONA JAFFE, author of "The Last Chance"

I know that actors are superstitious. Are writers that way, too?—A.S., Galveston, Texas

● I certainly am. It seems that every time I've based a character on someone I knew in real life, the things I made happen to that character later happened to the real person. I'm not saying I'm clairvoyant, because I know people follow the dictates of their own personalities, but now I never make anything bad happen to anyone I know. And I'll never, never "kill off" a friend.

FOR GEN. WILLIAM WESTMORELAND, former Army Chief of Staff

What do you think of women at West Point?—John Mason, Pittsfield, Mass.

● I think it's silly. They're depriving young men of the limited places that are there. The purpose of West Point is to train combat officers, and women are not physically able to lead in combat. Maybe you could find one woman in 10,000 who could lead in combat, but she would be a freak, and the Military Academy is not being run for freaks.

FOR GENE WILDER, actor

I bet someone that you're an Aquarius. Do I win?—M.P., New Milford, Conn.

● You lose–I'm a Gemini.

FOR VIKKI CARR

What's your real name, and why did you change it?—Mrs. Vivian Ralls, Uniontown, Kan.

● My given name is Florencia Bisenta de Casillas Martinez Cardona. There wasn't a theater marquee large enough to take all that, and it was suggested to me very early that I should shorten and change it.

FOR LESLIE UGGAMS

Are you related to Nancy Wilson or Diahann Carroll?—J.R., Gastonia, N.C.

● We used to hang out together, but there's no blood relationship. You're not the only one to confuse me with them. After I was approached for the umpteenth time and asked if I was Nancy or Diahann, I said, "Neither. I'm Ella Fitzgerald." It was in a restaurant. The woman looked startled, peered at my dinner plate, and said, "You wear well. Must be what you eat."

FOR THOMAS A. MURPHY, Chairman of General Motors

Wouldn't our unemployment problem be helped if we put a quota on the number of foreign cars allowed into the U.S.?—Myron A. Pylpec, Hyattsville, Md.

● I don't think so. Many of our products are exported to countries throughout the world. It is estimated that the jobs of 51,000 G.M. employees in the U.S. alone were related to 1974 exports from this country. Were the U.S. to adopt a restrictive trade policy, it could invite retaliation, limit our exports and result in more unemployment.

Ted Bessell

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I'm annoyed with Ted Bessell, who played Mary Tyler Moore's boyfriend last season. I've written to him many times to ask if he's married, but he won't answer. What gives?—M.G., Scranton, Pa.

● We're surprised, because Ted is usually very good at answering mail. Could be you didn't hear from him because a few months ago he moved from Hollywood to New York, where he's starring on Broadway in "Same Time Next Year," and his mail is still catching up with him. Ted is not married. He's a bachelor, romantically involved right now (he won't identify the lady) and gloats over the fact that he's always been lucky with his stage and screen leading ladies (Mary Tyler Moore, Marlo Thomas, Loretta Swit, Sandy Dennis). He has often said his "Mary Tyler Moore" boyfriend role comes closest to the way he is in real life.

America's Changing Mood

How You Voted on Our "Timely Issues Survey"

By Jerry Flint

Our readers have sent a message to the Presidential candidates. The message comes from the Timely Issues Survey that FAMILY WEEKLY ran last April, and to which 75,000 readers replied, their answers as clear as the clamor of Joshua's trumpets.

They aren't satisfied. They don't believe that either of this year's candidates is equal to the leaders of the past. Sixty percent of the respondents of FAMILY WEEKLY's poll felt that way, and in any vote, that's a landslide. And the vote varied only moderately among men and women, young and old, Easterners, Westerners, Northerners and Southerners.

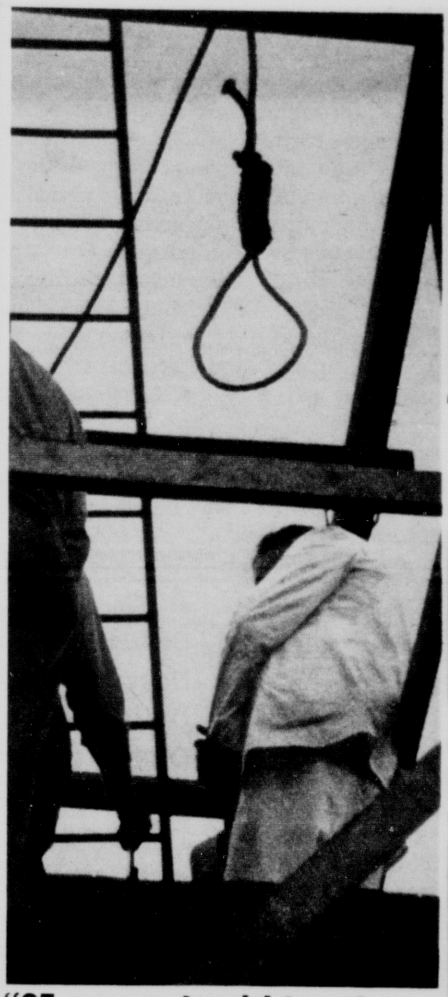
There are other messages, too. FAMILY WEEKLY's readers want change. Some would say that they want to go back, that they're conservative. But what is "conservative" and what is "liberal"? The words have changed meaning. Two hundred years ago, when our Revolution was fought, a liberal wanted less government interference, a conservative wanted more. But in the past decades, those marching under the liberal banner have wanted—and gotten—more government, while the conservatives have called for less.

One thing was true 200 years ago and 20 years ago; the liberals wanted change, the conservatives wanted more of the same. Readers of FAMILY WEEKLY want change. Does this make them liberal? They want less government control of their lives. Does that make them conservative? The words may not be clear any more, but the readers' vote is:

- 52 percent of the total felt the Government was doing enough for the unemployed, against 39 percent who thought more should be done.
- 78 percent felt social-welfare programs, not the military, should bear the brunt of inflation-fighting spending cuts.
- 82 percent were against quota hiring to atone for past race and sex discrimination.
- 85 percent said tougher sentencing and the death penalty would help reduce crime.

There were surprises. Despite the almost universal condemnation of intelligence agencies in the press and Congress, 59 percent in FAMILY WEEKLY's poll said the C.I.A. should not be curbed, against only 27 percent calling for such a curb. And an even stronger 74 percent said the U.S. is justified in using the C.I.A. and military techniques to disrupt Communist takeovers abroad.

Legalization of marijuana was rejected by 68 percent, although among those under 25 years of age the rejection vote was much smaller (46 percent against, 41 percent in favor). Taxpayer-supported day-care centers for pre-schoolers were opposed, too, with a strong 68 percent "no" vote and a 25 percent "yes" vote.



F.P.G.

"85 percent said tougher sentencing and the death penalty would help reduce crime."

"Legalization of marijuana was rejected by 68 percent."

F.P.G.

"51 percent said compulsory retirement should be abolished."

Yet FAMILY WEEKY readers aren't rejecting the social revolution of the past decade. Indeed, their answers indicate an effort to reconcile change with traditional morality.

For example, 45 percent said it was wrong for American firms to pay "commissions" to win business (against 40 percent who voted "yes"). And while 80 percent favored banning explicit sex scenes and obscenities from TV, a much smaller 49 percent favored such censoring in movies. Some 59 percent were against young people being able to get abortions without parental knowledge, yet the "right to life" movement's strong anti-abortion stance was rejected by 45 to 37 with 17 percent voting "unsure."

By 2-to-1, the respondents favored banning homosexuals from certain professions, yet by a slim majority they also favored more encouragement to women to seek careers.

Among the surprises in the Timely Issues poll:

- 51 percent said compulsory retirement should be abolished, with even the youngest voters agreeing.
- 54 percent said the Government would be justified in levying extra energy taxes on energy-expensive vehicles and appliances.
- 51 percent believe that the United States should develop high-speed, efficient train service, even though most of the readers are auto owners.

But on foreign policy there were fewer surprises.

Détente as an effective foreign policy was rejected 2-to-1, and strong support for the U.N. was thumbed down 48 percent to 39 percent. Continued strong support of Israel won 51 percent of the votes, against 32 percent who said no. (Interestingly, the strongest support for that embattled nation came from the South and the West.) And by a 4-to-1 margin, recognition of the Palestinian Liberation Organization was rejected.

When asked to choose the factors on which the future of the human race depended, FAMILY WEEKLY readers pragmatically voted military preparedness and military balance first and second, respectively, and world religious feeling third.

The sharpest division in the answers was between those under 25 and those older. The under 25's opposed the majority's rejection of more aid to the unemployed, opposed their support of the C.I.A., their rejection of homosexuals, and even their distaste for the U.N.

Often the under 25's voted with the majority—but in much less strength on issues such as cutting social services, quota hiring, sex in movies (a larger percentage of youngsters approve of it), day-care centers and even recognition of the P.L.O.

Some believe the views of today's youth will be the position of tomorrow's majority. But the FAMILY WEEKLY poll shows that views change with age. Thus the votes of those 25 to 34 were noticeably more conservative than those under 25.

Perhaps the most disturbing element in the poll was anxiety about the future.

In answer to the question of whether problems such as racial strife and sexual revolt would fade and leave a more pleasant society, 45 percent said "no" and only 34 percent said "yes," with a strong 20 percent voting "unsure."

In answer to the question asking whether our children and grandchildren will lead more satisfying lives than today's generation, a strong 2-to-1 voted "no." Even those under 25 voted "no" by the same margin.

And while an impressive 85 percent of those replying said America was the best place to live today, only 60 percent felt this nation would be the best place to live in the next half-century. Among those under 25, 38 percent voted "unsure."

This, then, is the challenge the readers of FAMILY WEEKLY send to the Presidential candidates: Provide the leadership and the wisdom that our country needs.

Perhaps our next President might recall the words of Thomas Jefferson upon his inaugural.

"Fellow citizens," Jefferson said, "a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good Government."

The 7 Stages of Woman

A Well-Known Writer Maps the Crises Through Which Every Female Must Pass

Joan Bingham

By Gail Sheehy
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Gail Sheehy is the author of "Passages," the best seller about adult life from which this outline of women's life stages has been condensed. Her painstaking research, drawn from in-depth interviews with 115 men and women from all parts of the country, whose stories are mirrors of our common experience, brings together recent studies by more than 30 behavioral scientists.

Adulthood, like childhood, takes us through a series of stages, each marked by a different outlook on life and different behavior. Between the more stable stages are passages. Each passage is a turning point, during which we are exposed and vulnerable, but also yeasty and embryonic again, capable of stretching in ways we hadn't known before.

Here is the briefest outline of the developmental ladder for women. Do not take the ages too seriously. The stages are the thing, and most particularly the sequence:

PULLING UP ROOTS
(Ages 18 to 22)

The struggle to break away from parents begins in earnest. Even as one part of us seeks to be an individual, another part longs to restore the safety and comfort of merging with another. The two forces are at odds within all of us. But until recently, most of the seeking has been done by young men and most of the merging by young women.

One of the most popular myths of this passage is that we can piggyback our development by attaching ourselves to a Stronger One—be it a spiritual leader who demands total allegiance or a mate whom we think will "take care of" us. If a young woman does tie up to a supposed Stronger One, if she doesn't allow herself her own identity crisis at this point, it will erupt during a later transition, when the penalties may be harder to bear. A stormy passage through the Pulling Up Roots years generally aids the normal progression of the adult life cycle.

THE TRYING TWENTIES
(Ages 22 to 28)

During this period, the focus shifts from the interior turmoils of late adolescence to the process of trying on life's uniforms (and various partners) in search of the perfect fit. Doing what we "should" is the most pervasive theme of this longer and more stable period. Depending on family models, economic conditions and the current prejudices of our peers, the "shoulds" might come out as:

- I should work to change the system.
- I should be married by now.
- I should definitely wait to get married until I've finished my training.
- I should be able to combine marriage, career and motherhood.

The exhilaration of trying ourselves out in the adult world is balanced by the fear that whatever course we choose, once it's taken, it can never be changed. The choices we make in our 20's are not irrevocable, but they do set in motion a life pattern that will powerfully affect the questions raised by later passages.

"As she approaches her 30's, whatever course a woman has pursued, she will now feel somewhat narrow and restricted by her earlier choices. . . . Almost everyone who is married feels a discontent."

CATCH-30
(Ages 28 to 32)

Impatient with devoting ourselves to the "shoulds," a new vitality springs from within as we approach the passage into the 30's. Whatever course a woman has pursued, she will now feel somewhat narrow and restricted by her earlier choices. The woman who was previously content at home with children chafes to venture into the world. The woman who has been out pursuing a career feels a longing for emotional attachments. The woman who has remained determinedly childless is suddenly intrigued by the mysteries of giving birth. And almost everyone who is married feels a discontent.

During this passage new commitments are made, old ones broken or renewed. One common response is the tearing up of the life we spent most of our 20's putting together. Divorce is common. If Americans get divorced, the most likely time for them to do so is seven years after marriage—when the man is about 30 and the woman 28. This has been true for the past half-century.

If the woman at home does not act on her own impulse to broaden during this passage, the bind doubles. Sensing that to give vent to any solid ambition—to devote the time, love and discipline to make it work—will invite a jealous backlash from her husband, she often retreats instead to the safety of her previous stage. She then tries to reel him back in with her. But he senses that as a trap. What he formerly saw as safety, he now retreats from as danger. Now her whole effort is to hang on to the arrangement and resent him. This is the classic Catch-30.

The seven-year cycle shows up in a different form for the woman who chose to become an "achiever" in her 20's. Of 1,500 achievers randomly selected from "Who's Who of American Women," more than half have married—but not until the Catch-30 passage. Once they had their bachelor degrees, they devoted an average of seven years' undivided attention to their careers.

ROOTING AND EXTENDING
(The Early 30's)

Moving out of the Catch-30 passage into the period of equilibrium that follows, life becomes less provisional, more rational and orderly. We begin to settle down in the full sense. Most of us begin putting down roots and sending out new shoots. Houses are bought, apartments renovated. Connections to our past and the influences of our parents become more clear, now that we are less absorbed in trying to prove ourselves unique.

"Thirty-five is the age at which the average mother sends her last child off to school."

THE AGE 35 SURVEY

Women sense the inner crossroads leading to midlife earlier than men do. The time pinch often prompts a woman to stop and take an all-points survey at 35. Whatever options she has already played out, she feels a "last chance" urgency to review those options she has set aside and those that aging and biology will close off in the now foreseeable future.

A half-dozen facts of female life combine to bring the sense of deadline to the fore at this particular age:

• Thirty-five is the age at which the average mother sends her last child off to school.

• Thirty-five is when the average American woman reenters the working world. She can then expect to be part of the labor force for the next quarter of a century.

• Thirty-five begins the dangerous age of infidelity. The desire for a torrid experience coincides with a woman's sexual peak, which is usually reached in the late 30's. Finding a new husband is usually not the point. The idea is: "This is my last chance to have a fling before I lose my looks."

• Thirty-five is the most common age of the runaway wife. Although most are economically well-off, their husbands have stopped thinking of them as individuals. Runaway wives, whose numbers are growing dramatically, are women who feel this is their "last chance" to change their lives before they're deserted.

• Thirty-five brings the biological boundary into sight. The greatest number of single-mother adoptions are made by women between 35 and 39. Women who have been single-minded about their careers up to this time often marry and become stepmothers.

• Around age 35 is when the divorced woman is likely to take a new husband.

The "Age 35 Survey" is sometimes precipitated by a painful outer event: a parent dies; a husband takes a younger companion. Such an event often speeds up the process of moving through the midlife crisis—letting go of earlier illusions, discarding stereotyped roles, taking oneself apart in order to make room for a broader, more authentic self. But the process can

Plant Now . . . Step Back . . . and Watch Out!

Amazing Super-Growing Species Soars Into A Magnificent Tree IN JUST ONE YEAR!

And if you think that's startling — just wait 'til you see the spectacular show when it starts to flower — Actually smothers itself in such lavish masses of bouquets, its branches appear to bend from the sheer mass and weight of the magnificent blooms.

That's the kind of wondrous results reported by Gov't. Plant Research Stations . . . Botanical Gardens . . . and University Plant Scientists on what is undoubtedly the most fantastic flowering shade tree ever introduced in America — the incredibly beautiful Paulownia . . . the only flowering shade tree in all of nature that can do all of this and more:

READ WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY ABOUT THE INCREDIBLE PAULOWNIA . . . THE FASTEST GROWING FLOWERING SHADE TREE EVER DISCOVERED!

HEIGHT: Plant Scientists and Government Experts report a growth rate of 15 to 18 feet under less than optimum conditions and even as much as 18 to 22 feet of growth the very first year on specimen trees.

That's more growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE SEASON than even a fully matured 15-year-old flowering dogwood, or prize star magnolia.

SPREAD: University Researchers report beautiful ornamental spread of nearly 35 feet at maturity . . . packed with thousands of magnificent flowers. Think of it. It not only surges skyward in the most spectacular burst of beauty you've ever seen . . . but, also arches out in a magazine-cover display of color-drenched branches.

EASE: Leading editors report: . . . grows in almost any soil . . . and below-zero root-hardy, too. Yes, because nature has endowed this landscape-artist's "dream-tree" with super-growing strength . . . because it is virtually resistant to most every common disease . . . requires practically no care at all. You simply plant it and forget it . . . it's as simple as that.

A TOWER OF BEAUTY IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

Yes, who says you have to spend a small fortune for a flowering shade tree? — and then spend half a lifetime waiting for it to grow? It used to be that way — BUT NOT ANY LONGER. Not since we have finally tracked down the one single tree in all of nature that hoists itself high, so fast you can literally measure the difference in both height and spread from week to week . . . or take a yardstick and measure the incredible difference in feet from month to month!

How's this for a natural archway in front of your driveway — twin towers of flowering beauty in less time than you ever dreamed possible.

VITAL STATISTICS FROM LEADING EXPERTS

MATURE GROWTH SIZE — 40 to 45 feet, even as much as 60 feet

MATURE GROWTH SPREAD — 35 to 50 feet

ZONE OF HARDINESS — completely root-hardy from deepest south to as far north as Montreal, Canada. Flowers even after 10 below zero winter freeze.

ONE YEAR GROWTH RATE — Experts report growth range of up to 22 feet the first year after planting specimen trees under optimum conditions, up to 13 to 15 feet under poorer conditions when pruned for foliage growth only.

FLOWERS — When tree is a blooming size, you'll enjoy thick panicles of fragrant lavender blooms. Highly recommended by landscape artists as specimen planting for front lawn.

SOIL REQUIREMENTS — Natural strength and vigor allow it to soar full forth in even poor soil. You can plant it anywhere.

CARE — No special care whatsover. No spraying. No dusting. No special feeding. Naturally resistant to most every disease, pest or insect.

TAKES BUT 10 MINUTES TO PLANT — REWARDS YOU WITH A LIFETIME OF BEAUTY STARTING THIS VERY YEAR!

GROWS IN ANY SOIL — REQUIRES NO SPECIAL CARE — SOARS INTO A MASTERPIECE OF LUSH, GREEN BEAUTY IN JUST A MATTER OF MONTHS!

Best of all, unlike most trees that demand constant pampering . . . the only thing you do when you plant Paulownia is water it and enjoy it. That's why leading botanical gardens . . . landscape artists . . . garden editors . . . recommend it again and again for home-owners who want a stunning display of both beauty and shade . . . and with practically no more work than a couple of sprinkles a season.

Picture your patio bathed in the cool, fragrant beauty of this show-stopping miracle-tree from early spring to the first snows of winter.

SUPPLIES EXTREMELY SHORT . . . ONCE GONE, OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON — SO ACT NOW!

Now, the price of this super-growing shade tree is not $20 or $30 but a mere $3.95 . . . yes, only $3.95 for this magnificent shade tree that rewards you with such a glorious display of growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

However, supplies are going fast. All orders filled on a First-come First-shipped basis. You must act now!

Here's a luxury sight you don't have to wait half a lifetime growing — a matched pair of flowering showpieces, so strong and sturdy you can actually sling a hammock between them.

Never Has There Been a Faster-Growing, Flowering Shade Tree Introduced To America — Royal Paulownia

Yes, plant this season — see it soar forth in a tower of beauty in just one year! It's the most spectacular splurge of both growth and beauty of any shade tree ever brought to this country. And it's so easy to grow even a child can do it!

The 7 Stages of Woman

just as easily begin with an inner pull that has no explanation.

THE DEADLINE DECADE
(Ages 35 to 45)

Gradually, an altogether new perspective on life and time, on oneself and others, emerges over the next 10 years. This is called the Deadline Decade. It would be an unimaginative perspective to the 25-year-old woman who believes that life will go on forever and that not to be loved is the worst thing in the world. The view from midlife is this:

Life does end. Time is short. Each of us travels alone. No one can always keep us safe. And there are some parts of our personality that we cannot change or ignore—even when the price may be separation and loss—if eventually we are to find unity within ourselves.

The most difficult task for a dependent wife in midlife is to see, to feel, and finally to know that none of us can aspire to fulfillment through someone else. For all her qualms about where to start looking for a new future, she usually enjoys an exhilaration of release. Assertiveness begins rising. There are still so many firsts ahead.

RENEWAL OR RESIGNATION
(Ages 45 to 60)

A new stability is achieved coming out of the midlife passage. If a woman has refused to change and expand during the Deadline Decade, her sense of staleness will calcify into resignation. Imperiled by widowhood, she will be concerned over the body-monitoring of her husband. Out of a job once her children leave home, she may feel valueless. Career women who remain dependent on their superiors are usually frozen in middle management.

If, however, a woman has confronted herself in the midlife passage and found a renewal of purpose, these may well be the best years. Personal happiness takes a sharp turn upward for partners who can now see each other more as a valuable source of companionship, rather than as a substitute parent. The career woman who has challenged her superior and has come to believe in her own authority will be more likely to advance.

"At 50, there is a new warmth and mellowing. Friends become more important than ever, but so does privacy."

At 50, there is a new warmth and mellowing. Friends become more important than ever, but so does privacy. The woman who has achieved an independent identity will feel free to say what she really thinks. And once she knows without a doubt that she will never have another child, her creativity is often redirected with a burst of post-menopausal zest.

The New Chevrolet

The handwriting was on the wall.

It clearly said that the time had come for a new kind of six-passenger car. One that would use fuel and space more sparingly, yet still provide the kind of room and ride you've found so comfortable and comforting in our popular full-size '76 Chevys.

The car is here.

It's called The New Chevrolet.

More head room

The New Chevrolet stands a little taller than last year's full-size Chevy, which perhaps explains why it looks so very proud in profile.

Inside, there's a little more clearance for heads and hats and hairdos, both in the back seat and up front.

A new acoustical ceiling helps keep things nice and quiet.

More leg room in back

We've increased the rear-seat leg room by an inch in The Sedan (below) and by nearly two inches in The Coupe.

It will make a significant difference in riding comfort, especially on trips.

The straight-up styling of the car makes it easier to climb into and out of, too.

More trunk room

The trunk is truly enormous, more than a cubic foot bigger than last year, with a nice flat floor that makes it easy to arrange things.

It's one of many pleasant surprises awaiting you in The New Chevrolet.

More efficient

The New Chevrolet is, by design, a very lean but very strong automobile. We eliminated excess inches and ounces everywhere we could.

And it pays off at the gas pump, with improved EPA mileage figures compared to '76 full-size Chevys.

For example, The New Chevrolet is EPA rated at 22 mpg highway, 17 mpg city with the new standard Six, auto. trans. and 2.73 axle. Remember, EPA figures are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and available equipment.

More like it

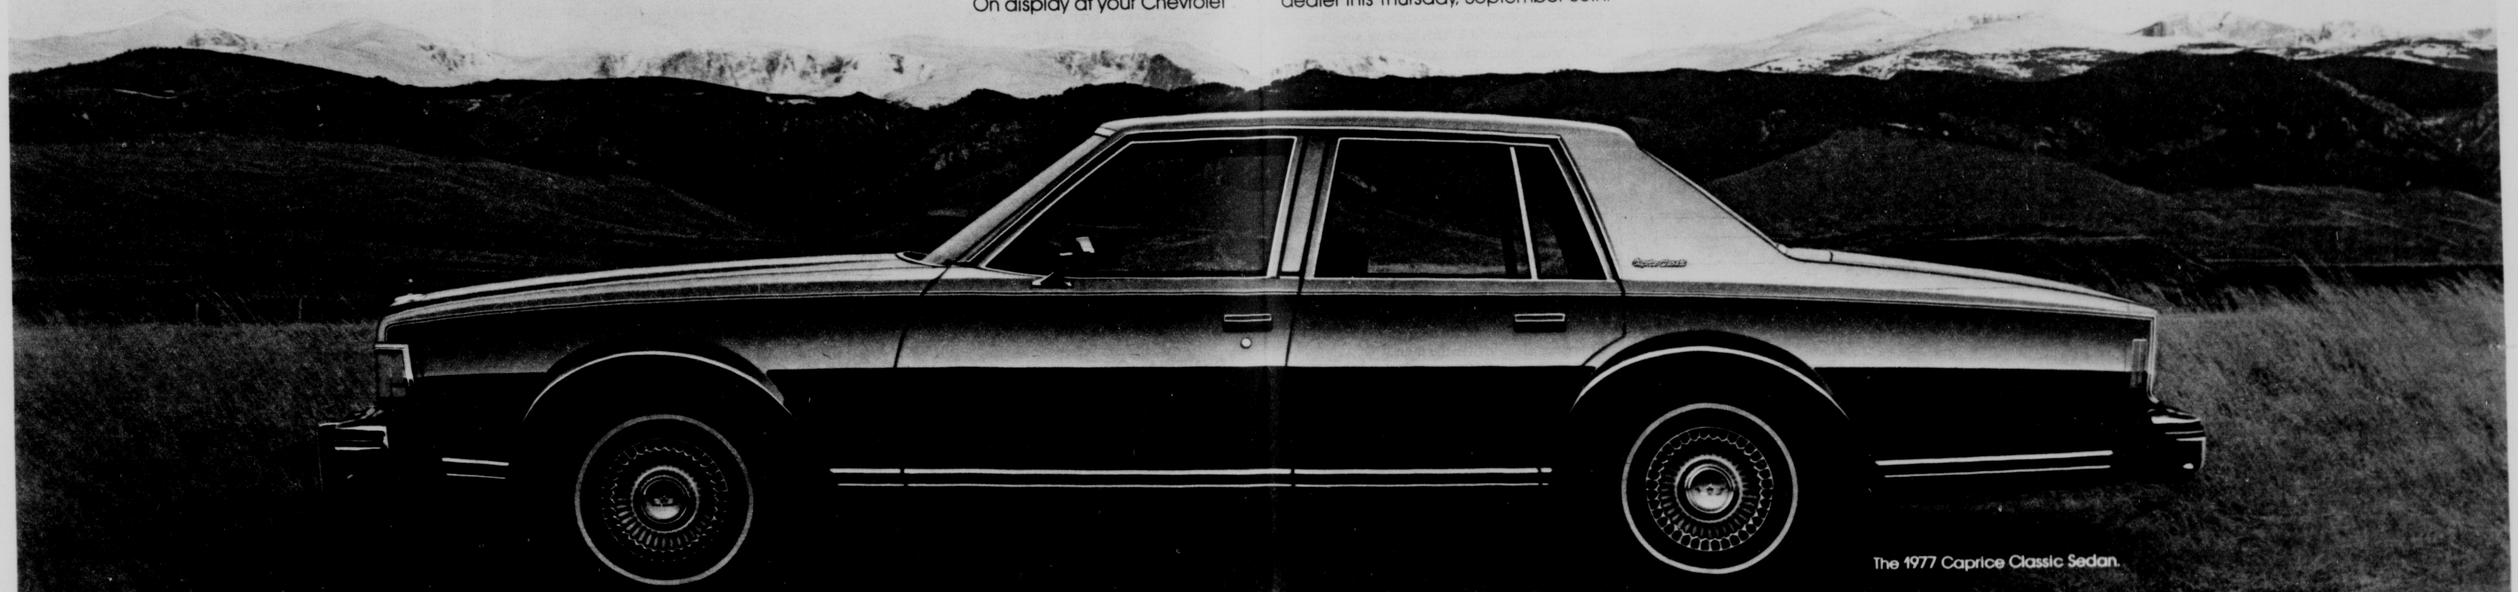
The New Chevrolet.

We made it right for the times without making it wrong for the people.

We think you're going to like it.

A lot.

On display at your Chevrolet dealer this Thursday, September 30th.



The 1977 Caprice Classic Sedan.

PEOPLE QUIZ/By John E. Gibson

Your Mind's Eye – And How It Reflects on You

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who are addicted to Pollyannaism (psychologists define this as "the attempt to believe that 'all is well' despite one's actual dissatisfaction") are likely to have neurotic tendencies and end up "talking to the trees."

2. People who see themselves as unique or "different" are always worrying about what others think about them.

3. If you feel that the world is giving you a bad deal, that's exactly what you're liable to get.

4. Some people can be in a terrifying situation involving extreme danger—and not feel the slightest fear.

5. The extent to which you perceive life to have purpose and meaning tells a lot about your character.

True or False? People who see themselves as unique or "different" are always worrying about what others think about them. (See No. 2)

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health show good personality adjustment, together with a liking for close personal relationships "is associated with a general Pollyannaism concerning all aspects of the person's world." This finding suggests that it's better to cultivate an optimistic outlook and expect only the best.

2. False. Psychological studies at the University of Michigan have shown that people who think of themselves as unique or different, are the least concerned with others' approval. They have their own set of standards, and as long as they live up to them, they couldn't care less about what other people think.

3. True. Psychiatric studies show that many people go around "feeling abused" with no cause other than the idea that life should be handed them on a silver platter. What specialists call the "abused feelings syndrome" is described as "one of the strongest forces that lay people open to really being abused; in fact the inner feeling often invites the facts."

4. True. Some people, in times of stress, completely disassociate themselves from the event. Psychologists call this depersonalization, a feeling of detachment as though the experience were happening to someone else. Studies show this frequently occurs in times of extreme danger. ("I wasn't really frightened, though it might have killed me. It felt like it was happening to someone else.")

5. True. In an interesting study conducted by a team of University of Idaho investigators, men and women undergraduates were given a so-called "Purpose-in-Life Test." It was found that those who made low scores on the test attributed sigificantly greater importance "to the values of pleasure, excitement and comfort." As one behavior specialist observes: A direct focusing on pleasure and happiness tends to be self-defeating; it works against a sense of fulfillment, against finding meaning and purpose and, instead, tends to promote an existential vacuum. On the other hand, those who scored high on the test seemed to focus on the importance of peace of mind and spiritual values.

SAFE, SOOTHING, 24-HOUR RELIEF FROM STIFF, ACHING JOINTS!

- Works to ease pain *24 hours a day!
- Can be worn under clothing without telltale bulges.
- No drugs, no ointments, no bulky heating pads that "chain" you to an electrical outlet.

If you suffer the nagging aches, pains and discomforts that result from stiff joints and strained muscles, you've probably already tried many different types of remedies. Yet each of them probably has a distinct disadvantage that bothers you. For example, pills and drugs could pose a potential danger with repeated use. Creams, ointments and rubs can be smelly, messy—apt to stain clothing and bed linens. Heating pads are generally effective but can be used only for limited periods—and they tie you down to an electrical outlet.

But now, at last, there's a completely safe, completely natural way to combat aches and pains centered in stiff joint areas. And, amazing as it may seem, this wonderful new method has none of the disadvantages we've mentioned.

Now, joint sufferers can find blissful, long-lasting relief . . . with remarkable new JOINT EASE. These specially designed, triple-layer, foam-and-fabric pads take full advantage of an astounding, scientific, sauna-like principle, enabling them to conserve, contain and concentrate your own safe, natural body heat right where you need it most . . . around stiff, painful joint areas—at the knee, elbow, ankle or wrist.

To repeat—this is concentrated on-the-spot relief obtained by providing maximum contact with areas of pain. Shortly after you start wearing Joint-Ease, you should actually feel a lessening of aches and discomfort. The heat generated by Joint-Ease should begin to soothe the distressed elbow, ankle, knee or wrist—significantly relieving much of the strain, stiffness and misery.

Unlike other aids you may have tried, Joint-Ease Pads are safe and comfortable to use 24 hours a day. All through the night, they can help you sleep peacefully once again. All through the day, they can help you go about your normal activities once again. Wear them under clothing . . . there are no telltale bulges to embarrass you.

Want proof of everything we've stated? Then try Joint-Ease Pads under our ironclad, no-nonsense guarantee—without risking a penny! Remember—the only thing you have to lose is pain . . . so mail the risk-free coupon today for sure!

"Eat and Grow Younger!" says leading Research Doctor!

PHYSICIAN "DE-AGES" PATIENTS WITH INEXPENSIVE "SUPERFOODS"!

EXCLUSIVE!

First Release to the Public in a new book by Dr. Benjamin Frank! About this breakthrough work by Dr. Frank, Dr. Sheldon H. Hendler, Ph.D., Chairman, Division of Basic Sciences, University of Baja, California says: "I know of no other medical person or nutritionist who has continuously stressed the dietary importance of nucleic acids as has Dr. Benjamin Frank . . . he has opened the doors, to the general public, to the substances which form the very essence of life in a way that is edible, tasty, and very easily digested."

Based on the recent discovery of the "Key of Life"! You've read about the startling discovery of the Double-Helix, the substance in your genes that instructs your body cells how to reproduce themselves. Since then, fantastic strides have been made in research on the substances called ATP, DNA, and RNA. Dr. Frank's own studies suggested to him a startling theory . . .

The Reason People Age Is That Their Body Cells "Forget" How to Renew Themselves!

ATP is the fundamental fuel of life — a magic molecule we need to throw a ball, make love, feel alive. DNA is the "program" nature builds into every cell in your body, to tell it whether to become a part of your heart, your muscles, or your fingernails. RNA is the "messenger" that instructs each cell what to do to carry out Nature's program. All these superfoods are what science calls nucleic acids.

Dr. Frank theorized that as people get older, these programs become faulty. The DNA "forgets" some part of the program, or the RNA "forgets" to give the cell the complete instructions. As a result, your new skin cells aren't quite as good as your old cells. The skin loses its resiliency and wrinkles develop. Your muscles lose some of their capability and grow less strong. Your heart, your lungs, even your brain, start to be made up of new cells which haven't the perfection your cells had when you were young. So, that's how human life has always been, you say. What can you do about it?

Dr. Frank's startling idea is: Don't let the cells forget. Correct the energy loss in aging — restore the energy required for repair of this forgetful DNA! Teach them how to be young again by feeding the body more nucleic acids. He tried it, first by injecting nucleic acid into mice, then with a group of human beings. It produced spectacular results – often as early as the second or third day after treatment! And it is exciting medical researchers all over the world!

Wrinkles disappeared. Skin looked 10 years younger. Dr. Frank's patients also followed a diet of superfoods rich in nucleic acid. Within the first or second week, the patients' faces had a healthier, rosier appearance. The skin seemed smoother! Soon lines and wrinkles began to diminish! As described in his book, with 16 patients of both sexes, aged from 25 to 60, skin resiliency improved dramatically in weeks. The older they were, the more dramatic the changes were! On the average, the entire group looked 10 years younger! (Similar results are reported to have been obtained by Dr. Frank with thousands of patients in his private practice.)

After Dr. Frank wrote and published professional papers on the experiment, more researchers became excited. Now at last, Dr. Frank has written a book for the layman . . . a book which may be the most important breakthrough of the 20th century for anyone 40 or older! In it he reveals his special nucleic acid diet — a diet of superfoods you can follow at home — that features certain easily obtainable foods rich in the magic nutrients that instruct your "forgetful" body cells how to "reproduce themselves young"!

Dr. Benjamin S. Frank, a physician engaged in private practice in New York, is the author of such professional books as A New Approach to Degenerative Disease and Aging, and Nucleic Acid Therapy in Aging and Degenerative Disease. This is his first book detailing hs work for the layman, written with Philip Meile, Professor of Communication Arts, New York Institute of Technology.

THE SURPRISING LIST OF SUPERFOODS

The first time you read the list of foods Dr. Frank has found to be richest in their ability to "teach" the body to produce fresh young cells, you will be astounded.

Included is a totally unexpected "food from the seas" which is even richer in these precious nucleic acids when canned than it is when fresh!

Another superfood on the list is actually vital to the production of these magic youth cells; yet, the chances are, you have been pushing it right off your plate.

Another whole group of foods rich in nucleic acids are at their very peak of value when they are dried! This means you can save money with Dr. Frank's No-Aging Diet!

This sensational book is not written for doctors as Dr. Frank's first books were. This book is for you, and it includes everything you need to follow this diet of superfoods at home:

1. Some Walking Miracles
2. A Revolution in the Making
3. New Energy for Our Cells
4. The No-Aging Diet
5. It Shows on Your Face
6. Helpful Nutrition for Drug Addicts and Alcoholics
7. Eat Your Way to Health
8. Eat Better: You'll Breathe Easier
9. New Hope for Victims of Heart Disease
10. Cholesterol and the No-Aging Diet
11. A New Approach to Diabetes
12. How the No-Aging Diet Can Help Osteoarthritis
13. A No-Aging Diet for Vegetarians
14. Make Up Your Own No-Aging Diet
15. Some Other Theories of Aging
16. Toward a Healthier Future
17. Recipes for the No-Aging Diet

Fascinating Case Histories Bring New Hope for Younger Looks to All!

Read about the 76-year-old licensed pilot who looks like a vigorous man in his mid-fifties! "The truth is" he says, "I'm younger now than I was five years ago." At the age of 71, Edward W. Stitt was bald, arthritic, suffering from failing eyesight, had painful diverticulitis, and chronic fatigue. After superfood therapy from Dr. Frank, he reads telephone directories without glasses, his arthritis and diverticulitis have completely disappeared and there is a thin growth of hair on his once-bald head!

What are the foods that made "walking miracles" of Dr. Frank's patients? That's the most exciting news of all! They aren't strange foods — or peculiar potions you have to choke down — they are foods you probably eat anyway! You simply aren't getting enough of them, because in proper quantities Dr. Frank's research indicates they work wonders!

Why this diet of superfoods can work for you. If you are already in superb health and look young for your age, the diet will probably not make you look younger, says Dr. Frank. But it will act as a powerful preventive measure, delaying the onset of age, helping guard you against degenerative diseases. And teenage patients with acne in Dr. Frank's tests showed marked improvement. But if you are like most American adults, the diet will . . .

. . . smooth away wrinkles on the face, neck and hands . . .

. . . lessen or even reverse the ravages of degenerative diseases . . .

. . . you can slow down your aging process, maybe even grow a little younger, starting right now!

BJORN BORG:

He Doesn't Like Girls Who Spoil His Concentration

Sports Mini-Profile

Bjorn Borg is the world's No.-1 tennis player and the world's No.-1 attraction for teeny-boppers who besiege him at tennis tournaments around the world. A good-looking, 20-year-old with long, curly blond hair, Borg has become Sweden's most prominent international celebrity since Ingrid Bergman. In fact, he led Sweden to victory in the international Davis Cup competition last year. He clinched his No.-1 status when he won the World Championship Tennis tourney early this year, and then became the youngest player in 45 years to win at Wimbledon. His victories brought him an estimated $300,000 last year, and he may be able to go over the million mark this year when his prize money is added to a lucrative income from commercial endorsement. . . . Borg is the son of a clothing salesman who played amateur table tennis in Sweden. One night the elder Borg brought home a tennis racket he'd won in a tournament. Bjorn, who was 9, picked up the racket and began hitting tennis balls against the garage wall. He soon became obsessed with the game and began to practice indoors through Sweden's long winter months. . . . By the time he was 14, Bjorn had won all the scholastic tennis titles in Sweden. A year later, he dropped out of school. "I wanted to become a world tennis champion," he recalls, "and I felt the only way to do it was to give the game full time." When the money began to roll in, he was able to satisfy his father's lifelong ambition of buying a grocery store. . . . The teeny-boppers first discovered Bjorn when he came to England at 16 to play at Wimbledon. They have been pursuing him in hysterical swarms ever since. Bjorn admits he likes to be the center of female attention, but complains when they distract him from his sport. During the 1976 Wimbledon tourney, he lived a monastic existence outside of London to escape the mobs of admirers. Though he likes girls, he says he has no interest in becoming a "swinger," and he doesn't intend to get married until he's 25.

Ralph Waite:

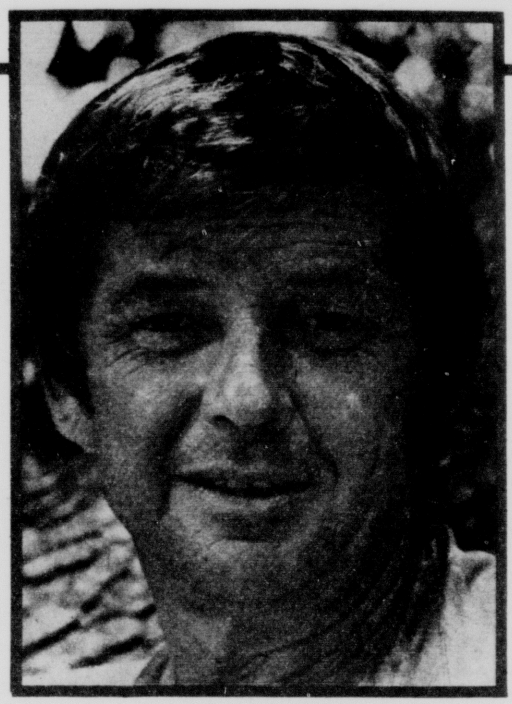
The Real-Life "Father Walton" Has Had Some Hard Times of His Own



"I feel the quality of loving that I may have as an actor is a gift, not a talent. One should not turn his back on a gift."

When I met Ralph Waite he immediately impressed me with his quiet dignity and strength and the substance of what he said. Not surprising when you consider his background . . .

FAMILY WEEKLY: Are you like Father Walton?

RALPH: I've had a much more troubled life. I've been divorced; I've lost one child who died of leukemia when she was 9; I've known what it is to be mixed up emotionally. I had a drinking problem and needed therapy—I didn't know how to handle myself or my life. But throughout, part of me has been the protector, friend, father. My parents died young, and I raised my two brothers and sisters. I worked as a social worker and cared for 75 families, then went into the ministry and led 2,000 people. So there is something in me that propels me to guide and help others. But the other side of my being is a driving, conceited person with a big ego—a person who wants a career and needs success. I've had to recall and strengthen the first part of my personality for my role in "The Waltons."

FW: What made you decide to go into the ministry? Were you brought up in a religious way?

RALPH: Not really. My father was a construction engineer. In fact, there was a time when I didn't even know what it meant to be a Christian. I was an agnostic when I met my wife in college. Then there was a period when I read a lot of books. There was one by Reinhold Niebuhr that had a tremendous effect on me. I became so infatuated with it that I drove up to see Niebuhr in Westchester County [N.Y.] and had a long talk with him. That chat made me decide to study for the ministry at Yale.

FW: Was your wife religious?

RALPH: Very. When I was in the Philosophy Club, she was head of a Christian organization, and we used to debate constantly.

FW: And you fell in love?

RALPH: We sure did. But I'm afraid we're divorced now. She lives in Carmel Valley with our two daughters. They're 15 and 18 and very beautiful.

© Lorillard 1976

FW: Does either of them want to go into show business?

RALPH: I don't think so. I think both would like to get married and settle down and live a more ordinary life than I do.

FW: Why did you give up the ministry?

RALPH: I didn't. I'm still a minister, but it has been a long time since I performed any official function. The last time I married a couple was back in Garden City, N.Y., where I served a little Congregationalist church. Recently, however, a friend got me to preach in front of a congregation—the first time in 10 years. It felt pretty good.

FW: Why didn't you continue your ministry?

RALPH: It just wasn't for me any more. I felt the Church was too far behind the times. Too slow, not in time with the social revolution, not sufficiently involved with blacks. I now realize I was impatient and overcritical. I blamed the Church for problems that were really my own personal problems.

FW: How did you get involved in acting?

RALPH: First there was an evening acting class, then a classmate who suggested I read for José Quintero. I did, and got a job as understudy for $25 a week. A couple of days later—before I had a chance to learn his part—the star got sick and I had to step in. I didn't know what I was doing.

FW: How did it come off?

RALPH: The leading lady got so upset she walked off stage in the middle of the performance—that's how it came off! I vowed I'd never do that again, and within six weeks I was able to do all the roles.

"I seem to be a one-woman man. I don't like to go out with a lot of different girls."

FW: Did being a minister help you as an actor?

RALPH: Probably. As a minister you have a certain authority and you're not as easily intimidated. Being older helped, too. By the time I got into acting, I wasn't just a frightened kid.

FW: What did you do to survive until you could make a living as an actor?

RALPH: At first I was an editor of religious books. Then I was a social worker in Westchester County. Then I was a waiter in a home for foster children. I drove cabs and even worked as a bartender.

FW: Was it strange for a minister to be a bartender?

RALPH: Well, I remember an embarrassing moment when one of my customers turned out to be a church deacon I had served under!

FW: What was your wife doing all this time?

RALPH: She managed the foreign students' house at New York University and was in charge of the students' kitchen. We got a free apartment out of that. Somehow she always sneaked enough leftovers upstairs for our kids. Without her help and her father's financial help, I don't know how we would have managed.

FW: What did her father do?

RALPH: At the time, he edited "War Cry," the Salvation Army paper. Later he became an editor at "Reader's Digest."

FW: Why did your marriage break up?

RALPH: We simply grew apart. At 35 you are not the same person you were at 20. When we finally realized what was happening, we couldn't face it. We took our marriage very seriously, and for six years after it was really over, we tried to stay together and make it work.

FW: Do you ever want to get married again?

RALPH: I honestly don't know. I've had a few relationships in my life, but each lasted a very long time. I seem to be a one-woman man. I don't like to go out with a lot of different girls, so after having been with one woman for so long, it's difficult to get used to someone else.

FW: How do you live now?

RALPH: I have a nice three-bedroom home on top of the mountains that divide Hollywood from the San Fernando Valley. It's totally private. That's what I like about it. On weekends I don't even answer the telephone. I have someone who comes in once a week to clean. The rest of the time, I take care of it myself, but after being married for 15 years, I'm not very good at housekeeping, particularly cooking—but I try.

FW: Don't you get lonely being on your own?

RALPH: It's funny, but I don't. For the first time in my life, I have a daily job from seven in the morning until seven at night. I like the discipline of it. My life is structured for a change. After 14 years of haphazard life as an actor, I now have security and permanence and organization.

FW: What do you do with your free time?

RALPH: I like to be by myself. I read, garden, write and think. When I first had a little extra money, I was so geared up that I'd hop on a plane and go to Europe or around the world. Now I'm very happy staying home by myself. I am very jealous of my private time.

FW: How well do you get along with your co-stars?

RALPH: Amazingly well after four years of spending 12 hours a day together, five days a week. We're together more than any real-life family, I'm sure.

FW: Do you see each other socially after work?

RALPH: Not me. I'm not the social kind. Richard Thomas (John Boy) does, and so does Michael Learned (who plays Ralph's wife). I tend to get involved in other things.

FW: Like what?

RALPH: I worked on Tom Hayden's campaign for the Senate. [Hayden lost the Democratic primary to incumbent John V. Tunney.] And then, there's my theater.

FW: Is that why you announced you were leaving "The Waltons"?

RALPH: Yes. I started a theater, which wound up costing me $25,000 a show because I insisted on paying every member of the cast. I asked the studio either to raise my salary or give money to the theater to keep it going. They wouldn't do either. Finally I gave in and went back to work.

FW: What did the public say when you left the series?

RALPH: I got a lot of letters from people who said they'd never written fan letters before, but I was serving an important function in their homes as a father figure, and they wanted me to stay on. They stressed the quality of love and caring for each other that we show on "The Waltons." I feel the quality of loving that I may have as an actor is a gift, not a talent. One should not turn his back on a gift.
It should be used.

RIZ PILAF
(Seasoned Rice)

1 tablespoon sweet butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups boiling beef or chicken stock
Few leaves saffron
Salt
Pepper

1. In heavy saucepan, heat butter until hot but not smoking. Add onion and cook, stirring over medium heat until clear.
2. Add rice* and cook for about 2-3 minutes, stirring, over medium-high heat until rice turns opaque.
3. Pour in hot stock; add saffron and stir. Heat to boiling, then cover. Place in preheated 350° F. oven for 18 minutes or cook on top of stove over low heat until liquid is absorbed, about 18-20 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Makes 4-6 servings

Le Cordon Bleu* Tip: Cooking rice in butter, before adding hot stock, enables it to absorb the cooking liquid better.

What's Smart: Our menu contains simple foods that one can buy anywhere. It's the special touch of putting certain foods together that makes the difference in just plain cooking and cooking with class, in Le Cordon Bleu manner. We all love chicken, and most cooks welcome a different way to prepare it.

Rice is another food we frequently take for granted. Knowing how to make a flavorful rice pilaf using varied cooking liquids and seasonings is an excellent way to cook rice that adapts to many menus.

LARRY AND PAT KELLEY
World's most untogether couple

Is their marriage on the rocks? Larry and Pat Kelley say it's more like on "Cloud Nine." She's an airline stewardess, based in Washington, D.C. He's an industrial engineer, working in Courtland, Ala. Their schedule looks like this: She takes off most Monday mornings for the 700-mile commute to her job in Washington. He takes off every morning for the 25-mile ride to his job in Courtland. When Larry's driving home in the afternoon, Pat's jetting off to far-off places. Some nights she flies to Las Vegas; he goes to night classes at a nearby university. While she's at 20,000 feet, he goes bowling. It's that way until Thursday, when Pat flies home to Alabama and Larry comes home to find a hot meal on the table. The Kelley's arrangement takes a lot of trust, and they've got it. "I can't worry about what he's doing when I'm gone," Pat says. "And I can't worry about what Pat's doing in Las Vegas," Larry adds. Just for the record, neither one is worrying. "When we're together," the Kelleys agree, "it's the best time possible."

Lemon Meringue, The Dip, Parfait, Strawberry & Lemonade, . . . No, they're not scrumptious concoctions dreamed up by an inventive soda jerk; they're the brainchildren of designer Fontayne. Fontayne ignores the dictates of Paris, New York and London; disregards trends ("My clothes are timeless; put them away for five years, bring them out, they're still in style.") and is involved in every facet of her creations from when her pen hits the sketch board until she models the end product herself. In fact, Fontayne began as a model. All of Fontayne's clothes are "one of a kind." She won't permit her styles to be mass-produced and will give a written guarantee of exclusivity. So if you want to make sure you don't come face to face with someone audacious enough to be wearing "your" dress when you go to that special event, Fontayne is the one to see.

LITTLE EMILY

"All right, You win, I'll eat my cauliflower . . . Just get us out of last place!"

Betty Friedan, the tenacious mother of feminism, thinks the women's movement is strangely threatening to those few career women who defied the "feminine mystique" long ago and made it in a man's world. She tells about her experience with one such "Queen Bee": "I was on the television program "Girl Talk" when the hostess, Virginia Graham, turned to the camera and said to the studio audience and the women out there, 'Girls, how many of us really need bylines? What better thing can we do with our lives than to do the dishes for those we love?' Well, I knew for a fact that her agent fought for every inch of the size of her byline on the television screen, and I wondered when was the last time she'd done the dishes for someone she loved. I turned to the camera and said, 'Women, don't listen to her. She needs you out there doing the dishes, or she wouldn't have the captive audience for this television program, whose byline she doesn't want you to compete for.' I realized then that this kind of "career woman" didn't really identify with other women at all. For her, there were three kinds of people in the world—men, other women and herself." From "It Changed My Life," by Betty Friedan (Random House, $10).

GOPHER BROKE

I've seen his homework in our grass.
I've seen the holes left by this gopher,
A ceaseless digger, never loafer.
I've tried some poison, tried a trap,
But neither stops that wily chap.
I've tried to drown him but, part otter,
He seems to thrive upon the water.
Though it may seem a bit absurd
I'd like to put in one good word:
Instead of what he does, you see
I wish this worker worked for me.

An exasperated teacher walked into a noisy classroom, slammed shut the door, smacked one hand on his desk and ordered: "I demand a little pandemonium here!" The startled pupils settled down at once.

"It isn't what you ask for," he told a colleague at lunch, "it's how you ask for it."

I recently took my 5-year-old daughter, Melissa, to a local carnival. At the admission gate, I was told it would cost 75 cents. Finding that I did not have the amount in loose change, I began to dig in my purse for a dollar bill. My daughter turned to the gentleman and said very seriously, "She's not a rich woman, you know!"

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

SONYA SHORTER OF GRAFTON, WV, ASKS:

"HOW DO BIRDS FLY?"

BIRDS FLY BY FLAPPING THEIR WINGS, STEERING MAINLY WITH THEIR TAILS. EACH WING FEATHER OVERLAPS THE ONE NEXT TO IT. ON THE DOWNBEAT, THE FEATHERS FORM INTO AN AIRTIGHT FAN, SUPPLYING MOST OF THE LIFTING FORCE THAT HOLDS THE BIRD IN THE AIR. AS THE BIRD'S WINGS BEAT IN FLAPPING FLIGHT, THE LONG WINGTIP FEATHERS TWIST AND PUSH AGAINST THE AIR AND DRIVE THE BIRD FORWARD. ITS HOLLOW BONES MAKE A BIRD LIGHTER SO IT CAN FLY EASILY.

DEAR POLLY — We dilute extra-thick shampoo with half water and put it in a squeeze bottle applicator. Less water and time are required when rinsing and it cuts the cost of the shampoo in half. —LAURA R.

DEAR POLLY — While visiting at a rest home I saw a wheelchair with gaily covered cardboard tissue tubes tucked between the cushion seat and the side of the chair to hold pencils, facial tissues and other odds-and-ends. It seemed very compact and handy. —MRS.W.B.

DEAR POLLY — When sending greeting cards to the blind, choose a card with a raised pattern such as a flag, flower or an animal. The recipient can trace his fingers over the card so as to really appreciate it. —MARGARET.

DEAR POLLY — I was out of town, had no clothes brush and my dark-blue pants suit had accumulated lint, dust and hairs. I took a damp bath towel and "brushed" my suit with it. To my delight, it worked beautifully and left no additional lint. —ALTA. (Polly's note: This is also a good way to remove light creases from clothes when traveling.)

DEAR POLLY — I was about to throw away my nut chopper after I broke the glass jar and buy a new one. It dawned on me that all I needed was a jar that would fit on the chopper part. I found a jelly jar fit perfectly. I find it works beautifully. —MRS. J.M.

DEAR POLLY — I keep an old dish drainer outside near the garden hose. Vegetables from the garden are easily washed and drained before being taken into the house, to eliminate mess in the kitchen. —MRS.J.F.

DEAR POLLY — If you have house plants that will need watering while you are on vacation, fill a washtub half full of water, set some bricks in the water and then put the pots on the bricks. Put the tub in a cool place — LAURA. (Polly's note: Of course, the pots would have to have holes in the bottom so the water could get through.)
